RUSS WAR FOR PETROGRAD

LOCAL LINES AID GROWTH IS PLEA FOR HIGHER RATE

Prosperity of East Bay Cities Due to Operation of System the Contention of Key Route

NEYLAN MOVES FOR APPLICATION DISMISSAL

Attorney Wade for Oakland Declares Increase in Fares Not Possible Under the Law

That the rapid growth and prosperity of Oakland and east bay cities during the last ten years has been directly due to the installation and operation of the transbay lines of the Key Route company will be one of the main arguments made by that corporation in sustaining application before the State Railroad Commission for an increase in rates, according to the line of evidence begun this morning at the adjourned hearing in San Francisco.

Officials of the Key Route Company placed on the stand and examimend by Attorney H. L. Creed gave evidence which can be used later as a basis for such a claim.

At the opening of the hearing, Attorney John F. Neylan, representing the East Oakland Protective Association and the Merchants' Exchange, submitted a motion that the application be dismissed at this time. He gave as his reason therefor the fact that the present application of both the Southern Pacific Company and the Key Route virtually ignores the decision made by the Railroad Commission in 1914, and the principals laid down at that time when the commission refused the Southern Pacific permission to raise rates, and the further fact that the east bay communities are being put to continual expense, "engaging in sham battles with the Southern Pacific Company."

NEYLAN'S CONTENTION IS NOT ANSWERED

Neylan said that the Southern Pacific is endeavoring to show that the suburban system is in a poor and decrepit condition and at the same time fails to put in evidence the financial report of the company which would show marked gains, irrespective of the compensation from the suburban system.

C. W. Durbrow, attorney for the Southern Pacific, when asked by Chairman Max Thelen if he wished to reply to Neylan, said that the argument answered itself.

Attorney H. M. Wade, representing the city of Oakland, asked that the application be dismissed on the ground that an increase in one-way fares is not possible under the State law as asked because an increase cannot exceed a combination of local rates. Both motions were taken under advisement by the commission, and, according to Chairman Thelen, will have their effect on the ultimate decision.

The witnesses placed on the stand by the Key Route Company this morning were: J. F. Potter, superintendent of transportation; F. W. Frost, secretary-treasurer, W. I. Brownbeck, a director of the company, Edward M. Boggs, consulting engineer, and Augustus S. Kibbe, engineer.

LOBBY AT CAPITAL DENIED BY FROST

B. D. Marx Greene, representing the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce and the city, put some very pertinent questions to Secretary Frost. Neylan also cross-examined the same witness at some length. After getting him to admit that the re-organization of the company and a re-adjustment under the re-settlement franchise act had been under consideration for three years, they asked him what steps had actually been taken by the company to readjust the franchises. They also asked him if the company had not been very active in working for the approval by the legislature of the re-settlement franchise amenament to the city charters of Oakland and Berkeley.

"How much did you spend on a lobby in Sacramento?" asked Neylan.

"We did not maintain a lobby," replied Frost.

"Do you know what lobbying means?" asked Neylan. "Did certain officials of the Key Route go to Sacramento merely to decorate the hotel lobby?"

"They were there on business of the company," replied Frost.

"Do you know what arguments Harry Brown used to persuade legislators to vote for the approval of the amendment?"

"No," said Frost.

"Did he not tell them that it was absolutely essential to the welfare of

WILSON APPEALS TO LABOR FOR SUPPORT IN CONDUCT OF WAR

By Associated Press.

"Mr. President, Delegates of the American Federation of Labor, Ladies and Gentlemen: I esteem it a great privilege and a real honor to be thus admitted to your public councils. When your executive committee paid me the compliment of inviting me here, I gladly accepted the invitation, because, it seems to me, that this, above all other times in our history, is the time for common counsel, for the drawing not only of the energies but of the minds of the nations together. I thought it was a welcome opportunity for discussing to you some of the thoughts that have been gathering in my mind during the last momentous months.

Woodrow Wilson

"I am introduced to you as the President of the United States, and yet I would be pleased if you would put the thought of the office into the background and regard me as one of your fellow-citizens who has come here to speak, not the words of authority, but the words of counsel, the words which men should speak to one another, who wish to be frank in a moment more critical perhaps than the history of the world has ever yet known, a moment when it is every man's duty to forget himself, to forget his own interests, to fill himself with the nobility of a great national and world conception, and act upon a new platform elevated above the ordinary affairs of life, elevated to where men have views of the long destiny of mankind.

LAST DECISIVE ISSUE IN PRINCIPLES OF FREEDOM

"I think that in order to realize it is very desirable that we should remind ourselves just how this war came about and just what it is for. You can explain most wars very simply, but the explanation of this is not so simple. Its roots run deep into all the obscure soils of history, and, in my view, this is the last decisive issue between the old principles of power and the new principles of freedom.

"The war was started by Germany. Her authorities deny that they started it. But I am willing to let the statement I have just made await the verdict of history. And the thing that needs to be explained is why Germany started the war. Remember what the position of Germany in the world was—as enviable a position as any nation has ever occupied. The whole world stood at admiration of her wonderful intellectual and material achievements, and all the intellectual men of the world went to school to her. As a university man, I have been surrounded by men trained in Germany—men who had resorted to Germany because nowhere else could they get such thorough and searching training, particularly in the principles of science and the principles that underlie modern material achievements.

WHY GERMANY WAS NOT SATISFIED

"Her men of science had made her industries perhaps the most competent industries in the world, and the label 'Made in Germany' was a guarantee of good workmanship and of sound material. She had access to all the markets of the world, and every other man who traded in those markets feared Germany because of her effective and almost irresistible competition. She had a place in the sun. Why was she not satisfied? What more did she want? There was nothing in the world of peace that she did not already have and have in abundance.

"We boast of the extraordinary pace of American advancement. We show with pride the statistics of the increase of our industries and of the population of our cities. Well, those statistics did not match the recent statistics of Germany. Her old cities took on youth, grew faster than any American city ever grew; her old industries opened their eyes and saw a new world and went out for its conquest; and yet the authorities of Germany were not satisfied. You have one part of the answer to the question why she was not satisfied in her methods of competition. There is no important industry in Germany upon which the government has not laid its hands to direct it and, when necessity arose, control it.

"You have only to ask any man whom you meet who is familiar with the conditions that prevailed before the war in the matter of international competition to find out the methods of competition which the German manufacturers and exporters used under the patronage and support of the government of Germany. You will find that they were the same sorts of competition that we have tried to prevent by law within our own borders. If they could not sell their goods cheaper than we could sell ours, at a profit for themselves, they could get a subsidy from the government which made it possible to sell them cheaper, anyhow; and the conditions of competition were thus controlled in large measure by the German government itself. But that did not satisfy the German government.

SOUGHT TO DOMINATE INDUSTRY OF WORLD

"All the while there was lying behind its thought, in its dreams of the future, a political control which would enable it in the long run to dominate the labor and the industry of the world. They were not content with success by superior achievement; they wanted success by authority. I suppose very few of you have thought much about the Berlin-to-Bagdad railway. The Berlin-to-Bagdad railway was constructed in order to run the threat of force down the flank of the industrial undertaking of half a dozen other countries, so that when German competition came in it would not be resisted too far—because there was always the possibility of getting German armies into the heart of that country quicker than any other armies could be got there. Look at the map of Europe now. Germany, in thrusting upon us again and again the discussion of peace talks about what? Talks about Belgium, talks about northern France, talks about Alsace-Lorraine. Well, those are deeply interesting subjects to us and to them, but they are not talking about the heart of the matter.

"Take the map and look at it. Germany has absolute control of Austria-Hungary, practical control of the Balkan states, control of Turkey, control of Asia-Minor. I saw a map in which the whole thing was printed in appropriate black the other day, and the black stretched all the way from Hamburg to Bagdad—the bulk of German power inserted into the heart of the world. If it can keep that, she has kept all that her dreams contemplated when the war began. If she can keep that, her power can disturb the world as long as she keeps it—always provided, for I feel bound to put this proviso in—always provided the political influences that control the German government continue to control it.

SPIRIT OF FREEDOM CAN FIND WELCOME

"I believe that the spirit of freedom can get into the hearts of Germans and find as fine a welcome there as it can find in any other hearts. But the spirit of freedom does not suit the plans of the Pan-Germans. Power cannot be used with concentrated force against free peoples if it is used with concentrated force against free governments. You know how many intimations come to us from one of the Central powers that it is more anxious for peace than the chief central power: and you know what it means that the people in that Central power know that if the war ends as it stands they will in effect themselves be vassals of Germany, notwithstanding that their populations are compounded with all the people of that part of the world, and notwithstanding the fact that they do not wish in their pride and proper spirit of nationality to be so absorbed and dominated.

"Germany is determined that the political power of the world shall belong to her. There have been such ambitions before. They have been in part realized. But never have those ambitions been based upon so exact and precise and scientific a plan of domination.

"May I not say that it is amazing to me that any group of people should be so ill-informed as to suppose, as some groups in Russia apparently suppose, that any reforms planned in the intercourse of people can live in the presence of a Germany powerful enough to undermine or overthrow them by intrigue or force. Any body of free men that compounds with the present German government is compounding for its own destruction. But that is not the whole of the story. Any man in America, or anywhere else, who supposes that the free industry and enterprise of the world can continue if the Pan-German plan is achieved and German power fastened upon the world, is as fatuous as the dreamers of Russia.

WILL CONFER ON HOW TO WIN WAR

"What I am opposed to is not the feeling of the pacifists, but their stupidity. My heart is with them, but my mind has a contempt for them. I want peace, but I know how to get it and they do not. That is why I sent a friend, Colonel House, to Europe, who is as great a lover of peace as any man in the world; but I did not send him on a peace mission; I sent him to take part in a conference as to how the war is to be won, and he knows that I know that is the way to get peace, if you want it for more than a few minutes.

"All this is a preface to the conference that I referred to with regard to what we are going to do. If we are true friends of freedom—our own or anybody else's—we will see that the power of this country and the productivity of this country is raised to its absolute maximum and absolutely nobody is allowed to stand in the way of it. When I say that nobody is allowed to stand in the way I don't mean that they shall be prevented by the power of the government, but by the power of the American spirit. Our duty, if we are to do this great thing and show America to be what we believe her to be, the greatest hope and energy of the world, then must we stand together night and day until the job is finished.

"While we are fighting for freedom, we must see, among other things, that labor is free, and that is most important of a number of interesting things. It means not only that we must do what we have declared our purpose to do—see that the conditions of labor are not rendered more onerous by the war—but also that we shall see to it that the instrumentalities by which conditions of labor are improved are not blocked or checked. That we must do. That has been the matter about which I have taken pleasure in conferring from time to time with your president, Mr. Gompers. And, if I may be permitted to do so I want to express my admiration of his patriotic courage, his large vision and his statesman like sense of what is to be done. I like to lay my mind alongside of a mind that knows how to pull in harness. The horses that kick over

PRESIDENT DECLARES PACIFISTS ARE STUPID

Wilson Tells Labor Federation House Is Not Sent for Peace, But to Find Way to Win War

WORKERS ARE TOLD DUTY DURING CONFLICT

Germany Is Again Scored for Beginning Clash in Effort to Gain World Political Control

TERSE SENTENCES FROM PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS:

If Germany can keep what she now holds, she has kept all that her dreams contemplated when the war began.

Germany is determined that the political power of the world shall belong to her.

What I am opposed to is not the feeling of the pacifists, but their stupidity.

I did not send Colonel House on a peace mission; I sent him to take part in a conference as to how the war is to be won.

While we are fighting for freedom we must see that labor is free.

Democracy means first of all that we can govern ourselves.

Nobody has a right to stop the processes of labor until all the methods of conciliation and settlement have been exhausted.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 12.—In the most stirring speech of his career President Wilson today, addressing the American Federation of Labor convention here, pledged anew all the power and resources of America to the destruction of the Prussian military autocracy, declared victory is the only road to peace and called upon labor for redoubled efforts toward the winning of the war.

With a fire unparalleled in all his previous war speeches the President flayed the pacifist movement and made it clear that the patience of the government is near exhaustion in dealing with the obstructionists.

Six thousand delegates and visitors cheered the President with an enthusiasm he has not met before in the war. It left no doubt among his party as to where labor is standing in the conduct of the war.

Calling upon labor for increased endeavor in the conduct of the war, the President said:

"If we are true friends of freedom we will see that the power of this country and the productive activity of this country shall be raised to the highest degree and nobody should be allowed to stand in its way."

The President quickly followed this with a statement declaring capital more often to blame for labor troubles than the working men. He said he expected some new "instrumentality of co-operation between labor and capital" to be devised soon to bring about a greater industrial efficiency.

"While we are fighting for freedom we must see that labor is free," he declared.

EXPLANATION CAUSES CHEERS, LAUGHTER

The President drew cheers and laughter from the crowd when he explained Colonel House's mission to Europe.

"You will notice," he said, "I sent a friend of mine, Colonel House, to Europe, who is as great a lover of peace as is in the world, but I didn't send him on a peace mission. I sent him on a mission to find out how the war can be won. He knows, as I know, the way to get peace, if you want it.

"I'm for you if you're for me," the President concluded. He hurried away to take the train back to Washington amid the cheers of the labor delegates.

WILLING TO AWAIT VERDICT OF HISTORY

The President entered the hall to the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" and was cheered wildly. He was visibly pleased by the welcome.

Gompers took the chair and made a brief address introducing the President. He said, after declaring the organization open:

"This man of destiny, this man who has risen to the great occasion and opportunity of our time; the spokesman of freedom, the interpreter of the spirit of our times; the leader of thought and action along

BELLUNO FALLS AND FELTRE IS BESIEGED

Under Direction of War Board of Allies, Retirement of Army Is Succeeded by Offensive

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

ROME, Nov. 12.—The Italians have resisted the enemy everywhere on the northern front, along which the Austrians are attempting to outflank the Italian river line, the war office reports. On the plain there is brisk firing across the Piave river.

BERLIN, Nov. 12 (via London).—The Austro-German forces in Northern Italy have cut off 10,000 retreating Italians in the Upper Piave valley, the war office announces. The Italians are said to have surrendered.

The German statement says the Teuton forces have advanced from Belluno down the River Piave and are standing before Feltre.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Nov. 12.—The enemy's operations on the north and east in an attempt at encirclement of the Italians have not succeeded. The menace on the Italian left wing also was virtually past.

ALLIED WAR BOARD HITS FIRST BLOW

LONDON, Nov. 12. — The interallied military commission, which is directing the campaign for the salvation of Italy, is today delivering its first blow against the invading Austro-German armies.

Along the Piave river and upon the Asiago plateau, south of the Sugana valley, Italian troops and their allies have followed a bombardment of the Teutonic positions with sharp thrusts and at some points the advance guards of the invaders were thrown back, said advices from Rome today. In the Saguna valley advancing Austro-German forces were halted and some of them were captured by General Diaz' bersaglieri.

If, as the German war office claims, the Italian towns of Belluno and Vidor have been captured by the Teutons, a new menace confronts the Italian armies holding the Piave line north of Vidor.

A new strategic retirement may be necessary to avoid the cutting off of the Italian troops in the Alps north of the line of Asiago and Vidor.

TURKS ORGANIZE TO OPPOSE INVADERS

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Turkish troops which have been retreating before the British advancing in Southern Palestine are organizing for defense in the vicinity of Hebron, about twenty miles southwest of Jerusalem, says an official statement today. British mounted troops are continuing to push forward in some sectors.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—"There was heavy artillery fighting in the Verdun sector during the night," says today's official statement. "On the remainder of the front the night was calm."

PICKETS GUILTY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The forty-one women arrested last Saturday afternoon for picketing the White House in benalf of suffrage were found guilty in the police court this afternoon. Judge Mulowney did not sentence the women, but took the case under advisement.

Attorneys for Mrs. Harvey Wiley, wife of the pure food specialist, gave notice of an appeal and she was released under $100 bond. The others, among whom are Mrs. John Winters, social leader of New York, and Mrs. William Kent, wife of the former California Congressman, were released under the $1125 collateral put up by Miss Mary Ingham of Philadelphia.

American Wins Medal of Honor For Sea Heroism

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The first medal of honor "for extraordinary bravery" to be awarded to an American fighting man during the war has been given to Patrick McGunigal of Youngstown, Ohio, the Navy Department announced today. McGunigal is a ship's fitter aboard a United States cruiser in the war zone. His heroism in rescuing the pilot of a naval kite balloon from drowning brings him, with the honor medal, a gift of $100 from the Navy Department.

The captive balloon of the cruiser was 400 feet in the air, its observer searching for submarines, when it was struck by a squall. The balloon dropped 200 feet. The spare cable was hauled in on the ship, but the basket was whipped and twisted and the pilot was entangled in the ropes. The balloon was hauled to the ship's side, but the basket trailed in the water, submerging the pilot.

McGunigal, who has been fourteen years in the naval service, went over the ship's side and jumped to the ropes. He cleared the tangle and fastened a bowline around the pilot who then was hauled on deck. McGunigal was so exhausted from the struggle with the heavy seas that he had to be rescued by others aboard the cruiser.

TROOP TRAIN IS WRECKED; THREE DIE

CANON CITY, Colo., Nov. 12.—Three soldiers were killed and a number, probably sixteen, were injured in a rear-end collision between two troop trains on the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, about a mile west of Cotopaxi, a station near the Royal Gorge, at 5:50 o'clock this morning.

The dead:

CHESTER PRESTON, first sergeant.

FRED T. WHITEHOUSE, musician.

GUY B. ALEXANDER, band leader.

All live in Utah. It is believed all the injured will recover.

Cotopaxi is 72 miles west of Pueblo. The accident occurred shortly before 6 o'clock. No names or other details have been received by the Rio Grande offices, it was announced.

According to railroad officials the accident was a rear-end collision between sections two and three of a train carrying troops. Both sections were loaded with soldiers. The conductor of the second section reports his train was traveling about five miles an hour when the third section, moving twenty-five miles an hour, crashed into him. Most of the troops were infantry from Salt Lake, according to the railroad report.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 12.—Two trainmen were badly hurt, several officers were slightly injured and 200 soldiers received a severe shaking up when the four rear coaches of an eastbound troop train jumped the track near Minneapolis yesterday. A defective rail is given as the cause of the accident.

James R. Ford, St. Paul, conductor, sustained a broken leg, severe lacerations and slight concussion of the brain. Charles Marshall, a negro porter, Butte, Mont., sustained a fractured skull and his condition is declared to be serious.

TWO CASUALTIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — Two casualties were reported to the War Department by General Pershing today.

Seaman Andrew M. Halsted of a United States transport died November 7 from concussion of the brain, sustained by a fall from a hammock. He was a naval volunteer from Minnesota and no emergency address was given.

Private Emil B. Gailli of the engineers' corps died November 7 of bronchial pneumonia. His next of kin is his mother, Mrs. Cora Gailli, Chelsea, Mass.

BERG IS CAUGHT

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 12.—Captain Hans Berg, commander of the prize ship Appam, is once again behind the bars in the wire prison stockade at Fort McPherson today after having been at liberty since October 10. Berg and Lieutenant Alfred Loescher escaped at the same time, with eight other prisoners, and were returned early today from Laredo, Tex., where they were arrested while trying to cross into Mexico. Only one of the ten men who escaped is now at large.

Washington State Despatches Indicate Revolt Is Losing Ground and Will Be Foiled

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

PETROGRAD, Nov. 12. — Street fighting is proceeding constantly. Junkers loyal to the Kerensky government regained possession of the telegraph station this morning. The exact whereabouts of the Kerensky army, which is reported to be approaching the city, is unknown at this hour.

BY UNITED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — Fresh evidence that the Bolsheviki revolt in Russia is collapsing reached the State Department today. Official messages relayed through Persia say that Kerensky had reached army headquarters and that the uprising apparently would be "short-lived."

KORNILOFF ESCAPES AND JOINS KERENSKY

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—The army garrison today transferred its allegiance back to the provisional government, forcibly ejecting Bolsheviki leaders from various offices and drove them fighting back into the Kremlin.

It is reported here that General Korniloff escaped from Bykhoff and will aid President Rodzianko of the Duma in forming a government at Moscow.

The food situation here is most serious. The city, however, remains comparatively quiet.

PETROGRAD, by wireless to London, Nov. 12.—No communique was issued from headquarters today.

This is the first word received direct from Petrograd since Sunday forenoon. Non-issuance of an official statement may mean the Kerensky government desires to withhold information as to troop movements from the Bolsheviki in Petrograd, with whom they are probably at this moment fighting.

MOSCOW AGAIN IS IN KERENSKY'S HANDS

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Bolsheviki "government" of Russia is crumbling fast. It may already have crumbled away. Moscow is again restored to control of the provisional government. There is every probability that the expected battle between Kerensky's loyal troops and the Trotsky-Lenine factions is now in progress.

Despite the changes and uncertainty of information from various Russian sources, the London press reflected a more cheerful attitude today. The conviction was expressed everywhere that Kerensky had once again drawn strength from initial defeat.

German agents, with which the army is known to be plentifully sprinkled, are probably doing their utmost to prevent the lining up of Kerensky's forces against the revolutionists. One despatch received from Moscow told of certain troops ordered to entrain for service against the Bolsheviki, who mutinied and attempted to halt passage of special trains bearing their soldiers toward Petrograd.

Special correspondents for London newspapers in Petrograd yesterday sent despatches agreeing that support of the pacifists was dissolving. According to these despatches, there has already been some fighting on the streets of Petrograd.

AMBULANCE CARRIES DICTATOR TO SAFETY

Wireless despatches from Moscow declared that the counter-revolution against the Bolsheviki was in progress in Petrograd and that overthrow of the pacifists was only a matter of hours. The same source asserted that the village of Tsarskoe-Selo, about twelve miles from Petrograd, had been taken by Kerensky troops. Formation of an All-Russian organization to rescue the nation was also reported. Kerensky, with General Alexeiff, chief of staff, was reported to have escaped the Bolsheviki by being concealed in the bottom of an ambulance.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 12.—Modern Socialists and representatives of the center group have formed a coalition at Petrograd with a view to forming an anti-Bolsheviki cabinet, according to a press despatch received here today.

VON TIRPITZ INSISTS ON ANNEXATION

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 12.—At a meeting of the new Fatherland party in Munich yesterday Admiral Von Tirpitz, former German minister of marine, made a violent annexationist speech. He said the question whether Germany or England became the protector of Belgium would be the decisive issue of the war.

"A mistaken solution of the Belgian question would stunt our exports and the reserve capital of our industry and degrade us to being bona slaves of Anglo-Americanists," said the admiral. "Our military security lies in Belgium. It is the only way of obtaining compensation for our enormous economic losses."

The admiral added that it was a mistake to believe the submarine would prove sufficient protection against Great Britain and some effective counter weapon was bound to be discovered. He declared Germany must have Antwerp, that Austria must become the principal protecting power of the mouth of the Danube and that Germany was interested in the settlement of the mouth of the Danube and that Germany was interested in the settlement of the Adriatic question.

"Germany's struggle," he added, "is a terrific battle against the all devouring tyranny of Anglo-Americanism."

"I gladly accepted the invitation, because it seems to me that it was a welcome opportunity to speak to you some of the thoughts which have been gathering in my mind for the past few months. The crowd gave them with great heartiness.

Demand for "adequate and direct" representation of wage earners at the world peace conference is made in the annual report of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, submitted today to the federation in convention here. The report declares that the world war "must wipe out all vestiges of the old conceit that the nation belongs to the ruler."

Questions raised by the war occupy virtually the entire report. No room is left for doubt that the United States government has the unanimous support of organized American labor in the war and it is asserted with equal emphasis that the vital interests of the average citizen demand that he have a voice in the readjustments due to come with peace.

Optimism over labor achievements in the year is tempered with a warning that benefits obtained from emergency opportunities must be based on principles of human welfare and not the result of taking advantage of the nation's necessity.

Freedom of expression is upheld, but the report says those who abuse the freedom of the press to undermine the nation's free institutions should be punished as traitors.

"LABOR AND THE WAR."

Under the heading, "Labor and the War," the report says:

"Under all circumstances it is the duty of any government to protect its people against wilful and wholesale murder. . . . People unwilling to make the supreme sacrifice in support of the government which undertakes to make that principle good are undeserving to live and enjoy the privilege of free, democratic government."

The duty of wage earners in the war is emphasized particularly in the section of the report devoted to "peace terms," which advocates an international agreement to secure peace without "vindictive" indemnities or territorial changes. The section says, in part:

"It is an imperative duty from which there is no escape that wage earners, as well as all other citizens of this republic support our government in its righteous effort to defend principles of humanity and to establish democracy in international relations. Because we desire permanent peace, it is our duty to fight and sacrifice until these purposes can be achieved

BASIS FOR WORLD PEACE.

"We urge the adoption of the following declarations as the basis upon which peace must be negotiated:

"(1)—The combination of the free peoples of the world in a common covenant for genuine and practical co-operation to secure justice and, therefore, peace in relations between the nations.

"(2)—Governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed.

"(3)—No political or economic restrictions meant to benefit some nations and to cripple or embarrass others.

"(4)—No indemnities nor reprisals based upon vindictive purposes or deliberate desire to injure, but to right manifest wrongs.

"(5)—Recognition of the rights of small nations and of the principle 'No people must be forced under sovereignty under which it does not wish to live.'

"(6)—No territorial changes or adjustment of power except in furtherance of the welfare of the peoples affected and in furtherance of world peace

"In addition to these basic principles which are based upon declarations of our president of these United States, there should be incorporated in the treaty that shall constitute the guide of nations in the new period the following declarations, fundamental to the best interests of all nations and of vital importance to wage earners:

"(1)—No article or commodity shall be shipped or delivered in international commerce in the production of which children under the age of 16 have been employed or permitted to work

"(2)—It shall be declared that the basic workday in industry and commerce shall not exceed eight hours.

"(3)—Involuntary servitude shall not exist except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

BASIS OF WORK.

"The basis of reconstruction should be the trade union movements of the various countries. We recommend that an international labor conference of representatives of the trade union movements of all countries be held at the same time and place as the World Peace Congress that labor may be in touch with plans under consideration and may have the benefit of information and counsel of those participating in the congress."

WILSON SPEAKS
AT LABOR SESSION

the traces will have to be put in a corral.

"Now, to 'stand the ground' means that nobody must interrupt the processes of our energy, if the interruption can possibly be avoided without the absolute invasion of freedom. To put it concretely that means this: Nobody has a right to stop the processes of labor until all the methods of conciliation and settlement have been exhausted, and I might as well say right here that I am not talking to you alone. You sometimes stop the courses of labor, but there are others who do the same.

"And I believe that I am speaking of my own experience, not only, but of the experience of others, when I say that you are reasonable in a larger number of cases than the capitalists.

"I am not saying these things to them personally yet, because I have not had a chance. But they have to be said, not in any spirit of criticism, because I would like to see all the critics exported. But in order to clear the atmosphere and come down to business everybody on both sides has got to transact business, and the settlement is never impossible when both sides want to do the square and right things. Moreover, a settlement is always hard to avoid when the parties can be brought face to face. I can differ with a man much more radically when he is not in the room than I can when he is in the room, because then the awkward thing is that he can come back at me and answer what I say. It is always dangerous for a man to have the floor entirely to himself. And therefore we must insist in every instance that the parties come into each other's presence and there discuss the issues between them and not separately in places which have no communication with each other.

HUMAN NATURE THERE.

"I always like to remind myself of a delightful saying of an Englishman of a past generation, Charles Lamb. He was with a group of friends and he spoke very harshly of some man who was not present. I ought to say that Lamb stuttered a little. And one of his friends said, 'Why, Charles, I did not know that you knew so and so?' 'Oh, he said, 'I don't. I can't hate a man I know.'

"There is a great deal of human nature, of very pleasant human nature in that saying. It is hard to hate a man you know.

"I must admit parenthetically that there are some politicians whose methods I do not at all believe in, but they are jolly good fellows, and if they only would not talk the wrong kind of politics with me I would love to be with them. And so it is all along the line in serious matters and things less serious. We are all of the same clay and spirit and we can get together if we desire to get together. Therefore, my counsel to you is this:

NO SEPARATE CAMPS.

"Let us show ourselves Americans by showing that we do not want to go off in separate camps or groups by ourselves, but that we want to co-operate with all other classes and all other groups in a common enterprise which is to release the spirits of the world from bondage.

"I would be willing to set up as the final test, that is the meaning of democracy. I have been very much distressed, my fellow citizens, by some of the things that have happened recently. The mob spirit is displaying itself here and there in this country. I have sympathy with what some men are saying, but I have no sympathy with the men that take their punishment into their own hands; and I want to say to every man who does join such a mob that I do not recognize him as worthy of the free institutions of the United States.

"There are some organizations in [illegible] and the destruction of law, but I would not meet their efforts by making myself a partner in destroying the law. I despise and hate their purposes, but I respect the ancient processes of justice and I would be too proud not to see them done justice, however wrong they are. And so I want to utter my earnest protest against any manifestation of the spirit of lawlessness anywhere or in any cause.

"Why, gentlemen, look what it means. We claim to be the greatest democratic people in the world, and democracy means, first of all, that we can govern ourselves. If our men have not self-control, then they are not capable of that great thing which we call democratic government.

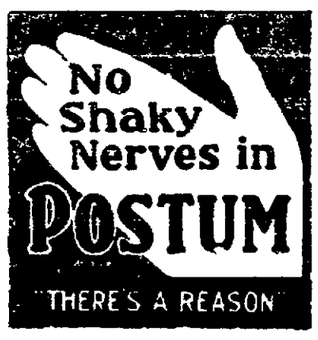

"A man who takes the law into his own hands is not the right man to co-operate in any form of law or institution. And some of the processes by which the struggle between capital and labor is carried on are processes that come very near to taking the law into your own hands. I do not mean for a moment to compare them with what I have just been speaking of, but I want you to see that they are mere graduations of the manifestations of the unwillingness to co-operate and the fundamental lesson of the whole situation is that we must not only take common counsel, but that we must yield to and obey common counsel. Not all of the instrumentalities for this are at hand.

HOPES FOR NEW MEANS.

"I am hopeful that in the very near future new instrumentalities may be organized by which we can see to it that various things that are now going on shall not go on. There are various processes of the dilution of labor and the unnecessary substitution of labor and bidding in distant markets and unfairly upsetting the whole competition of labor which ought not to go on—I mean now on the part of employers—and we must interject into this some instrumentality of co-operation by which the fair thing will be done all around. I am hopeful that some such instrumentalities may be devised, but whether they are or not, we must use those that we have and upon every occasion where it is necessary to have such an instrumentality originate upon on that occasion if necessary.

"And so, my fellow-citizens, the reason that I came away from Washington is that I sometimes get lonely down there. There are so many people in Washington who know things that are not so, and there are so few people in Washington who know anything about what the people of the United States are thinking about. I have to come away to get reminded of the rest of the country. I have to come away and talk to men who are up against the real thing and say to them, 'I am with you if you are with me.' And the only test of being with me is not to think about me personally at all, but merely to think of me as the expression for the time being for the power and dignity and hope of the United States."

the east bay cities that the amendment be approved?"

"I do not know," said Frost.

At this point in the proceedings Attorney Creed interrupted the cross-examination of Frost and placed W. I. Brobeck on the stand to explain the present situation in regard to the re-settlement franchise.

Brobeck said that committees appointed by the mayors of Oakland and Berkeley are now working on this problem and that until the committees report no progress can be made.

Edward Boggs, in his testimony, waxed as flowery as a real estate prospectus in his description of the wonderful results produced by the building of the Key Route lines. He began by stating that when the Key Route built its first line to Berkeley in 1904 the transportation provided to that city was only on smoky and dirty steam trains, poorly lighted by flickering lamps and that this was replaced by clean, electric motor cars.

"This was hailed as a blessing long desired," he said, "and the appreciation of the community was shown in the unanimity with which a citizen patronized the new service."

"Do you mean to say," said Chairman Thelen, "that everybody in Berkeley immediately began to ride on the Key Route?"

"No," replied Boggs.

"Then, by 'unanimous,'" said Thelen, "you did not really mean what you said."

The witness admitted that the use of the word had been inadvisable.

At noon, when the hearing was adjourned until 2 o'clock, Augustus Kibby was reading a complicated statement of valuations of Key Route properties showing the difference in values between June 30, 1914, and the present day.

ZURICH, Nov. 12.—An official report issued by the German war food bureau says more than 10,000 substitutes are now used in Germany. Seven thousand are substitutes for food. At the beginning of 1917 there were less than 2000 substitutes, of which 1200 were food substitutes.

GIRL WIFE FACES MURDER CHARGE

COLVILLE, Wash., Nov. 12.—Calm, but evidently concerned, Margaret Hanshaw, the 17-year-old wife of Albert Hanshaw and mother of a 2-year-old girl, today sat in court listening to the prosecution weave a web that may take away her liberty for the rest of her life.

The little woman is accused of the murder of Alexander Stickler Jr., October 15. In his opening statement Prosecuting Attorney L. B. Defley said the defendant's husband and Alexander Stickler Sr. had a business deal involving the cutting of some wood, and that Hanshaw wrote a letter asking Stickler to come to the Hanshaw home. It was in response to this letter, declared the prosecutor, that Stickler and his son went to the Hanshaw cabin.

Then young Stickler was shot and killed instantly and his father died a few hours later from bullet wounds.

There were no witnesses to the shooting except Hanshaw and his girl-wife. When an employee of Hanshaw's came upon the scene he said he found young Stickler's body lying on the floor and Hanshaw with a gun standing over the elder man. Hanshaw is alleged to have said: "He got what was coming to him anyway."

ARE UNDER FIRE

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The American Congressmen visiting the British, French and American fronts returned to Paris yesterday. While near Vimy Ridge, on the British front, they were under shell fire. They saw a bombardment of German positions on the French front.

On the American front the Congressmen were guests of officers of the engineers. Several Representatives chatted with American soldiers who had returned from the trenches. They also visited American batteries and the headquarters and cantonments behind the lines.

CONSTIPATION IS A PENALTY OF AGE

Nothing is so essential to health in advancing age as freedom and normal activity of the bowels. It makes one feel younger and fresher, and forestalls colds, piles, fevers, and other dependent ills.

Cathartics, and purgatives are violent and drastic in action and should be avoided. A mild, effective laxative, recommended by physicians and thousands who have used it, is far preferable. This is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs only fifty cents a bottle; a trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 456 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

WILSON AND PHONE HEADS TALK STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 12.—After listening to the oral demands of the electrical workers and operators in a conference which lasted until early yesterday afternoon, the President's mediation commission headed by Secretary of Labor W. B. Wilson, went into executive session to consider the written demands, and at 3 o'clock this afternoon will have their first conference with officials of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company looking toward a settlement of the telephone strike on the Pacific Coast.

After the conference yesterday, Secretary Wilson, said:

"I am looking for an early settlement of the telephone controversy, the workers are disposed to be fair and I have every confidence that both sides will be satisfied."

When asked if the situation in the Northwest among the insurgent locals would be treated separately, he said:

"That will depend upon developments during the present conferences. I have a hope, however, to treat the entire situation as a single unit."

L. C Grasser, international vice-president of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, said this morning: "We have submitted our proposition, which includes a request that the commission write into their decision permission for the operators to organize I can se no reason why this should not be acceptable to the telephone company as it is a constitutional prerogative that the girls have a right to organize operators' unions the same as they would have to organize a Red Cross knitting circle.

"The situation in the Northwest remains the same, so far as I know," continued Grasser. "I have heard nothing from them, but feel that they will allow things to remain as they are until the commission renders an award."

President John Morganthaler of the Pacific District Council, said that morning that influence was being brought to bear by insurgents in the northwestern cities to cause his withdrawal from the San Francisco conference and join them. "I will not do this. I will stay with the brotherhood and hope the locals up there will have the good sense to get back on the job when the commission has finished. They will have been out twelve days now and with another week's loss of income will be glad to abide by the awards made by Secretary Wilson and his commission."

Three concrete demands of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers placed before the President's mediation commission yesterday are:

One—Recognition of the girl operators' unions.

Two—Increase of $1 a day, from $4 to $5, in wages for electrical workers.

Three—Closed shop working conditions.

Woman Pastor's Nemesis Still Reply to Rev. Smith to Go On "You Lie!" She Cries at Services

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 12.—The Rev. Paul Smith, in his attack upon Judge Sullivan, may have to face Mrs. Genevieve Sullivan, standing in his congregation and at public meetings, grilling him with questions and defying him to prove his charges, if the dramatic episode of last night is repeated.

A tempestuous scene was created at the Central Methodist church when Mrs. Sullivan arose and called the Rev. Paul Smith a "liar and a coward," and challenged him to proceed with his charges against her husband. Throughout the remainder of the sermon she stood defiant in the midst of the congregation, offering comments on the statements of the pastor, checking him as to facts, challenging him to "tell the truth."

The church was filled to the doors to hear Smith explain what happened at the grand jury session Wednesday night when he attempted to substantiate his charges against Judge John J. Sullivan, and failed when his sole witness, Frank Wirthington, refused to back up the pastor's statements that Sullivan had been paid $10 to dismiss an automobile case.

STARTS HIS STORY.

Hymns and prayer proceeded according to the regular order, and the sermon was well on its way before the interruption came. The Rev. Paul Smith was dealing with what he termed "the mystery of Frank Wirthington." He told how Wirthington had come to his home October 27 and had told the story of having paid Judge Sullivan $10 to dismiss the case of a young man named Carrigan. When Wirthington appeared before the grand jury he appeared to be greatly agitated and repudiated the story he had previously told the pastor.

"Now, what happened to Wirthington?" the pastor continued. "Last night he came to me again and told me that a year ago he was in trouble which involved some innocent persons. He said that when he was about to enter the jury room, he met Assistant District Attorney Cunha, and that Cunha said to him: 'Frank, you know what we've got on you if you say a word.' I—"

"You lie!" came the clear voice of a woman. "Tell these people what you did tell the grand jury, if you dare. Tell them you denied like a coward what you had said about my husband."

Standing in her pew near the front of the church, with her two small sons and her sister by her side, Mrs Sullivan made a dramatic figure. Fashionably, but quietly gowned, a young woman with dark hair and eyes, her face slightly flushed with excitement and her lips trembling a little, she waited for the reply of the pastor. There were murmurings and whisperings from the congregation.

Turning half about in the pew, she said: "Yes, I am Mrs. Sullivan, and I am here to see that this man does not lie to you without being contradicted where he stands."

The whisperings in the pews rose to cries and shouts and laughter.

"Throw her out," several people cried.

Two ushers approached and hesitatingly offered to escort Mrs Sullivan from the church. She stood her ground and they retreated.

The pastor was pale, but succeeded in remaining outwardly composed He said:

"Will you remain quiet while I talk? Or would you rather speak first, and afterward I will speak?"

"I will remain quiet until you lie again," was the determined reply. "Tell the truth if it is in you You have never told it yet."

In proceeding, Smith reviewed the hostility toward him manifested by the district attorney's office, and said that this had been occasioned by his advocacy of the recall of District Attorney Fickert He said that he did not feel that there could be a bona fide prosecution of Judge Sullivan while Fickert remained in control. He continued.

"It is a sight worthy of our sincere admiration that the wife of a man should remain as loyal and true to him as Mrs. Sullivan has here shown herself to be. My sympathy goes out to her."

SEEKS ONLY TRUTH.

Mrs. Sullivan's clear voice interrupted: "I do not seek your sympathy. I seek the truth."

Another demonstration was made at the close of the service, when Mrs. Sullivan said in a voice that rang through the building:

"You have lied, Rev. Paul Smith. You dare not tell the truth. You act the part of the greatest coward!

Mrs Sullivan would have said more, but her voice was drowned in the storm of clapping and hissing and laughing that came from the audience. Her boys, blonde haired, wide-eyed, clung to her in amazement. She left the building.

On the street Mrs. Sullivan explained to friends that her husband knew nothing of her act in coming to the church.

She said he was out of town

"I will drive that man out of this town yet," she said.

"I visited the minister at his home previous to the grand jury meeting. He told me he had a great deal of positive written matter against the judge. When he was asked to produce this before the grand jury he said he did not have it with him."

Cunha last night denied the charge made by Wirthington and Smith that he had intimidated Wirthington as he entered the grand jury room.

"I never saw Wirthington until he took the witness chair in the grand jury room. Dr. Smith was the first witness called and when he mentioned Wirthington in his testimony we sent for him. Dr. Smith continued his testimony and I might have left the grand jury room, but before Wirthington arrived I had returned and was inside when he took the witness-stand. I never had any conversation with him prior to his giving his testimony," Cunha said.

Public Utilities Break All State Records For Profit

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—In 1916 the public utilities of California had the most made more money than in 1915, which year in turn exceeded the banner year of 1913. These figures are given out today by the Railroad Commission of California, in advance sheets of its annual report to Governor William D. Stephens.

The Railroad Commission has authority over all steam and electric railroads, stages and trucks, express companies, passenger and freight boats, pipe lines, water, gas, electric, telephone, telegraph, wharf and warehouse public utilities operating in California.

The total operating revenues of these utilities in 1916 were $436,215,181, as contrasted with $376,874,418 in 1913 and $384,617,734 in 1915.

The total operating expenses of California public utilities in 1916 were $275,161,231, as contrasted with $244,440,324 in 1913 and $249,303,932 in 1915.

The net operating revenues of California public utilities in 1916 were $161,053,929, whereas in 1913 they were $132,434,094, and in 1915 $135,313,802.

The net operating revenues of electric companies in 1916 was $25,000,000 greater than in 1915. The railroad revenues and expenses include their interstate business. These figures are for the calendar year 1916 as to all public utilities except railroads, for which statistics are for the year ending June 30 last.

With the exception of electric railroads, the net operating revenue of all classes of public utilities was greater in the year than ever before.

A very marked increase in net operating revenue was enjoyed by electric companies, gas companies, telephone companies and steam railroads. The net revenue of the steam railroads rose from approximately $83,000,000 in 1913 to approximately $99,000,000 in 1916, an increase of $16,000,000, or almost 20 per cent. The poor showing of electric railroads is due to the competition of jitney buses and auto trucks and of privately-owned and operated automobiles.

The increasingly large number of instances in which public utility water companies are selling their systems to municipalities and other public authorities is to a considerable extent responsible for the practically stationary character of water utilities' profits.

Under regulation by the Railroad Commission, the net operating revenues of California public utilities were approximately $3,000,000 greater in 1915 than in 1913, and approximately $25,000,000 greater in 1916 than in 1915.

The Railroad Commission's report says: "The increased prices of wages, fuel oil and materials and supplies which have made themselves manifest since the outbreak of the war in Europe, and which have become particularly noticeable in the United States subsequent to the declaration of war with Germany, have a material bearing on the financial showing of California public utilities for 1917. Some public utilities, such as certain of the larger steam railroads, may handle such an increased volume of business that notwithstanding the increases in gross operating revenues Other public utilities will undoubtedly report diminished net operating expenses, they may be able nevertheless to show increases in gross operating revenues for 1917. An increasingly large number of applications by public utilities for authority to increase rates is based on increases in the price of labor, fuel oil, materials and supplies."

JOINS MARINES

"Here is another son, ready to enlist in the Marines," explained Joseph G. Souza, 2235 East Sixteenth street, as he introduced a youth to the recruiting officer at the local marine recruiting station, 827 Broadway. "My eldest boy, Julius, enlisted in the Marines last April and he has written me from France that he is already in the front line trenches and ready to go over the top. He urges his brothers to follow him to France."

PROBLEM IS SHIPS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—That the labor situation on the Pacific Coast is much improved and that it will be completely adjusted during the winter months in time for a great increase in production with the coming of spring, is the opinion of Governor Ernest Lister of Washington, who arrived yesterday for a week's rest and recreation

"The great problem which we face in the war is not the need of men," said Governor Lister. "The army problem already has been satisfactorily solved. The problem of building ships in order to transport that army to France, to furnish it with supplies when we get it there, and to furnish the armies of our allies with supplies is what we now have to cope with. The news of the last few days that the shipbuilding strike had been partially settled was very encouraging."

UNUSUAL ATTACK

Aroused by a noise at his bedroom window, M. D. Carver, 558 Sixteenth street, went to investigate and a hand reached in and cut him with a knife. At least, this was his explanation regarding his injuries when he applied for treatment at the receiving hospital The victim of the unusual assault knows of no motive for the attack and assumes his assailant was on the point of entering the window with the intention to commit burglary.

GRAND JURY STARTS JAIL GRAFT QUIZ

The man who came early and waited around an hour or so to get a good seat at the grand jury hearing this morning suffered the same disappointing fate that was meted to every one who had not been summoned as a witness. The hearing in the Meyers' investigation in connection with the alleged jail graft proceeded at 10 o'clock behind doors that were barred, and no one not called was admitted into the corridor.

Charley Meyers, the principal of the investigation, sleek and well groomed, walked the hall impatiently. "I am tonguetied," he said when approached regarding his testimony. Up to 12 o'clock he had not been called.

QUIZ FORMER PRISONERS.

The forenoon was occupied with the testimony of the prisoners and former prisoners. Those seen in the corridor were Meyers, Jerome Wallburg, who was released by the Piedmont police for lack of sufficient evidence to hold him on a statutory charge, he being the man named by Fred W. Brokaw as having been released through the efforts of Meyers for a consideration of $2500; Brokaw himself, who was brought back from San Quentin to repeat his story; Charles Halladay and A. W. Robinson, probationers, and Halliday's brother, A. H. Halladay, who, it is understood, will testify that Meyers approached him in his brother's behalf; Robert Ware, who testified in Judge Ogden's court, and others.

Father Roger T. Gee, the clergyman to whom Brokaw first told the story that Meyers made claim to having influence that would release prisoners, was in conference with District Attorney W. H. L. Hynes and witnesses in the consulting room of the jail early in the forenoon.

Probation Officer Leonard Compton held himself in readiness to answer the jury's summons, but declared that he had no new information.

It is understood that the testimony will be substantially as it was given in Judge Ogden's court when the disclosures were first made with, however, considerable corroboration.

TESTIMONY OFFERED.

The testimony brought out was that Meyers had been a familiar figure in the jail corridors, and that he had approached prisoners and told them that for a consideration he could secure their release through the pull he declared he had. Brokaw, the society crook, who was last week sentenced to San Quentin, testified that Meyers offered for $2500 to get him out, "put him on the street," as it was expressed.

Brokaw's testimony was at the time corroborated by two witnesses, who said they overheard the conversation.

The grand jury adjourned at 12 o'clock until 2 this afternoon. Foreman J. F. Chandler, former principal of the Franklin grammar school, refused to allow the morning's proceedings to be divulged.

Attorney Sidney Schlesinger, counsel for Brokaw, said that Brokaw would repeat his testimony substantially as he gave it in Judge Ogden's court.

AUSTRALIAN GOODS TO BE 'RELAYED'

Plans to "relay" foodstuffs, grain supplies and other necessities to be shipped from Australia to the allies, will make Oakland's waterfront look like it did in the days of old when clipper ships continually unloaded cargoes here for transshipment.

Hereafter vessels from the coast returning from Australia will not come back in ballast, but will bring shipments of foodstuffs and supplies with them. These will be taken aboard trains in Oakland and shipped East, where they will be transhipped to Europe.

Heretofore Australian ships made the trip to Europe through the canal, but this expedient ties up too many ships, according to experts, while, by relaying the cargoes across America more ships can be utilized through the coastwise vessels being pressed into service, and the goods handled with more despatch.

Australia is producing vast quantities of foodstuffs which it is impossible to ship, due to the shortage of vessels.

MAN RECOVERING

ALAMEDA, Nov. 12.—Henry Bianco, of 1314 Santa Clara avenue, is recovering from injuries sustained last Thursday when he was squeezed between two street cars on the Webster street bridge. Bianco was riding a bicycle and rode in between the two cars. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital in Oakland for treatment, being later removed to his home here. Bianco sustained numerous head and body injuries none of which were especially serious.

ELKS PLAN PLAY

ALAMEDA, Nov. 12.—Alameda Lodge of Elks is rehearsing for its annual charity dramatic performance to be given December 13, 14 and 15. The offering will be a farce-comedy, "Advertising pays." There will be a cast of seventeen. The show will be staged at the Porter school auditorium, which seats 1100 persons. All seats will be reserved. A number of well known amateurs will be in the cast.

BANKRUPTCY SOUGHT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The bankruptcy petition of Charles E. Smith, a grocer, 1261 Twelfth street, Oakland, was filed in the Federal District Court today, with liabilities of $1507.32, assets, $1015.

Oakland to Taste "War Bread"

Bakeries Under Federal License

Oakland, in common with the rest of America, is soon to taste "war bread." It is not to be anything like the "war bread" of England, made of bran, black flour and water—it will be principally changed in that it will come in a standardized loaf, there will be a little less sugar in it, a little less shortening—and skimmed milk will be used in it instead of the milk used now with the cream still in it.

This was made known today, when news arrived that after December 10 all bakeries will be licensed by the United States Food Administration, and made subject to the administration's rules governing weights. This does not mean price fixing. There will be no 5-cent loaf, despite the demand for this. The Food Administration holds that a 5-cent loaf would have to be a small, rough loaf that would mean great waste of material. The smallest size to be made—a one-pound loaf—is expected to sell for 7 cents.

TO STANDARDIZE LOAVES.

The plan is designed to standardize the sizes of loaves, prevent waste, and save material. To this end the making of all grades of "fancy bread" will be forbidden.

Bread is to be baked in one, one and a half, two and four-pound loaves, with a midway increase on each to permit the sale of half loaves. Three pounds of sugar instead of six are to be allowed to the barrel of flour, and two pounds of vegetable oil instead of six pounds of lard or other oil.

"We have received no official notification of the rules yet," declared J. R. Hers, manager of Rudiger, Loesch & Zinkand, in this city. "But from the Washington despatches it seems that a practical plan has been devised. I believe that a one-pound loaf so specified could sell for 7 cents. Of course, the thing must be a law, or it cannot be done, for if one or two bakers persist and have the right to persist in baking bread on present standards we will all have to follow to hold our trade."

Other bakers also agreed that if the reform was made by law it would be successful, but that otherwise it might mean that all bakers would be forced into staying with the old system.

The reports from Washington indicate that the new plan will be in effect a law, as it will be possible under the license plan to absolutely control the situation.

TO ISSUE PROCLAMATION.

President Wilson will issue a proclamation, expected by this evening, setting December 10 as the date of the reform, and local food administrators will be immediately notified. This week will see a start made on licensing bakeries preparatory to the enforcement of the new rules.

The plan was devised under the direction of Food Administrator Herbert Hoover after an exhaustive study. He found that 40 per cent of the nation's bread was being produced in bakeries, and 60 per cent in the home. The housewife will be reached through the food pledges and by appeals to save foodstuffs, and the bakeries by law. Reduction in cost of production is affected by setting a standard maximum on materials, and thus the shortening and sugar provisions were put into the new rules.

Hoover hopes that through the plan a seven-cent loaf will be assured, although in smaller bakeries or stores it may be that this cannot be done without cutting out free delivery. That the reduction of sugar and shortening will make little difference is pointed out by the administration, which shows that the French eat bread without either. Skimmed milk instead of whole milk will also cheapen production costs.

English "war bread" which sells at 4½ cents per pound, contains other cereals besides wheat, and often potatoes.

ELECTION BIDS LOWEST IN YEARS

Owing to the brevity of the ballot to be used in the election for the recall of Mayor Davie on December 4, the bids for furnishing supplies are the lowest of any election held in the city for many years, according to City Clerk Cummings who has made the awards.

J. B. Lanktree was the successful bidder on the stationery supplies at $1.75 a precinct and F. Thoms will furnish the tents necessary, approximately 200, at $4.75 each including the putting up and taking down and cartage. There are 241 precincts in the city. The high mark for election supplies was set several years ago at $4.90 a precinct. The supplies for the last municipal election cost $2.29. The difference is accounted for in that all stationery is considerably smaller than heretofore.

The council, upon motion of Commissioner Morse adopted plans and specifications for the construction of a new freight shed on the Clay street wharf. The shed will be 75x300 feet and will cost in the neighborhood of $22,000. Bids will be called for at once.

WILL HAVE JOB.

C. Stuart MacMullan is practically assured of an opportunity to put into practice schemes he has for increasing the city's revenue by discovering sources that he claims have been overlooked in the ordinary procedure of business.

Three votes were accorded him on an ordinance providing for his appointment for a period of thirty days. Commissioner W. H. Edwards opposed the ordinance, declaring that at a recent conference with MacMullan he had refused to confide to the commissioners the methods he intends to pursue in uncovering the revenue sources.

The ordinance was passed to print.

"I vote 'no' on this proposed ordinance," said Edwards. "MacMullan indicated that he has no confidence in this council and I do not see why we should show any confidence in him. He refused to outline his plans until after he was assured of a job."

"We gave him an opportunity once before and he did not make good," said Commissioner Jackson. "But he seems to have a new idea and if he can produce any revenue that the city is entitled to I am willing to give him another chance."

Commissioner Morse expressed himself as feeling the same way about it and Commissioner Soderberg introduced the ordinance in council.

DAVIE ABSENCE.

Mayor Davie, who opposed it strenuously some time ago on a prior introduction, is absent on leave.

Commissioner Edwards said further that he is opposed to designating MacMullan as a "tax expert," as the ordinance would do and Commissioner Soderberg pointed out that "there is a comma after the name MacMullan, and before 'tax expert.'

Protest made by merchants in the vicinity of the Pantosky market at Tenth and Washington streets against the council granting permission for the concern to keep merchandise on the sidewalk, was referred to the commissioner of streets to take up with the city attorney.

ARREST GERMAN

SEATTLE, Nov. 12.—Gus Volrich, 40 years old, suspected German spy, was arrested shortly before noon today by government agents on a charge of having been responsible for two explosions in the plant of the Olympic Steel Works last week. One of the explosions resulted in a foreman being seriously burned and several workmen slightly injured.

Volrich, according to Howard Wright of the department of justice, put some highly explosive acid in materials used at the plant. When these materials were placed in a boiling pot an explosion would result.

SUES FOR DIVORCE

Joseph Travares has filed suit for divorce against his wife, Mary Travares, alleging desertion. The parties were married more than fifteen years ago and have two children, Gertrude, 14, and Ida, 13. Custody and maintenance is given the defendant, who offers to pay $10 a week for their support.

NOT QUITE DOWN AND OUT.

Many a man feels that he is down and out when as a matter of fact he still has in him many years of good service that can be brought out by proper treatment. Stomach trouble often makes one despondent. It hits him where he lives, saps his strength and energy and makes him feel like giving up. Give him a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets to improve his digestion and invigorate his liver and bowels, and in most cases recovery is prompt and effectual. For sale by Osgood Bros. BORAH SAYS WEST NEEDS LABOR, CARS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Lack of proper transportation facilities and methods, coupled with scarcity of labor, is seriously menacing the prosperity of the west, United States Senator Borah said today. Discussing for the International News Service the conditions as he saw them in a three-weeks' trip, the senator said:

"There is a serious condition in the west but it does not exist through a want of patriotism but a lack of means through which to effectuate the desire of the people to do the proper thing in this emergency.

"Last spring the farmers went forward and produced crops in splendid fashion. Now when the crops are being gathered it is impossible to find transportation facilities to carry the products to market. Any amount of fruit and potatoes are going to waste. There is very little use of talking economy and conservation when stuff is rotting and going to waste about you, and there is no enthusiastic encouragement to plant crops under such conditions.

"Now when the boys are going from the farms through the draft, the condition is that you can't find labor to plant and certainly not sufficient labor to take care of the crop. Unless the condition is changed through some method there will be a vast decrease in the crop acreage next year through inability to plant or sow and take care of it."

CO-ED KNITTERS BRING ON STORM

BERKELEY, Nov. 12. — Again University of California co-eds are the storm center of a spirited controversy and they and their adherents are rallying to the defense of the war custom of knitting during lectures. Professor C. E. Rugh, professor of education, is the assailant, declaring that women cannot knit and listen to a lecture at the same time. He further says, he has noticed that the women who are ardent knitters are third rate students.

His views on the subject are contrary to the expressed opinions of several of his colleagues including Professor O. M. Washburn, instructor in classic archaeology; Professor Charles Mills Gayley, head of the English department and Professor H. E. Cory, assistant professor of English. These three have given their approval to women students knitting during lectures.

Professor Washburn recently announced: "I heartily endorse knitting and enjoy seeing the women in my class thus occupied. It is far more interesting than to watch the monotonous vibrating of the mouths of veteran gum-chewers."

Professor Rugh holds that it is impossible to do two things at once, and that the women cannot be good knitters and good listeners at one and the same time.

Meantime the merry click of needles punctuates academic discourses in the classrooms, and will continue, say the co-eds, so long as there is no edict to the contrary.

ACCUSE WOMAN OF EXTORTING MONEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—Issuance of a warrant, charging extortion for Daisy Sinkins, the woman arrested Saturday night on charges of impersonating an officer and having drugs in her possession, will, according to detectives, open a case involving the names of several prominent men. According to the detectives, the woman, who was an investigator of vice conditions for Rev. Paul Smith, is accused of using information so gained for private ends. Several prominent men, the detectives say, became tired of paying for her silence and brought the police into the matter.

Miss Sinkins first achieved notoriety when a physician in the Receiving Hospital lost his place through her. She had been posing as a private detective for some time. Reports to Rev. Mr. Smith were found in her possession when she was arrested.

TWO ELECTIONS

VALLEJO, Nov. 12.—Two bond projects will result in special elections in Vallejo early in 1918, one to be a special municipal election and the other a special school election.

The city council has decided not to hold the bond election for the improvement of the water works until after the holidays, it being the intention to secure a most comprehensive report from the consulting engineer and then carry on a campaign of publicity.

The board of education is to adopt the same policy for a new school building in order to relieve the congestion, which makes it almost impossible to accommodate any more pupils in the public schools of this city.

PAINLESS DEATHS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Dr. Henry J. Hazelden announced today that treatment for a painless death is now being administered to patients by him.

"Euthanasia, or painless killing by God-given drugs relieves the pain and removes the horror of death," said Dr. Hazelden. "They pass the dreamy existence of lotus eaters."

To Paul Hodzeim, a child with a microcephalous head, is being given the lethal dose regularly, and other patients are passing a dreamy existence in preparation for death.

NEW RHODES SCHOLARSHIP CONSIDERED

Plans for future operation of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust, left by the late Cecil Rhodes, African mining millionaire, to send American university students each year to Oxford, are being discussed today at the University of California by George R. Parkin of London, president of the trust; President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the university, a member of the American committee for the trust, and various Oakland and San Francisco graduates who in the past have held scholarships.

Changes made necessary during the war may be put into effect. For the past two years no Rhodes scholars have been sent from the universities of America. This will leave a considerable fund when the war ends to be used, possibly for the sending of more scholars than usual until the surplus is expended. This situation and several possible changes in the rules governing the trust are being gone over.

The head of the trust is registered at the Hotel Shattuck. Today he visited the university, conferred with Dr. Wheeler, and also with William Crittenden, the first Rhodes scholar from the state university. He will, while in California, meet all the Rhodes scholars from the state, and will also interview educational heads. Parkin makes a yearly tour of America in the interest of the scholarship.

'ASTRAL BODY' AT SCENE OF CRIME

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The outstanding feature in the trial of Israel Weinberg, charged with murder in the Preparedness day bomb conspiracy, before Judge Emmet Seawell, was the calling of Captain Walter J. Petersen, formerly Oakland's chief of police, as the first witness for the defense.

Petersen was called to the stand out of order before the completion of the state's case to enable him to return to his command in the 143rd Field Artillery stationed at Linda Vista. On direct examination by Attorney Edwin McKenzie, Petersen caused a sensation when he stated that the state's star witness, Mrs. Nellie Edeau, had stated to him that she was in reality at Steuart and Market streets on the day of the explosion, July 22, 1916, and that her astral body was at 721 Market street and Third and Market streets, by reason of which she was able to testify as to what she saw in that locality.

COULD IDENTIFY TWO MEN.

The former chief stated that Mrs. Edeau called at his office July 27, 1916, and told him that she believed she could identify the two men under arrest in San Francisco (Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings), that she had been at Steuart and Market streets with her daughter, Sadie, and saw two men acting suspiciously and carrying a black suitcase with white metal trimmings and had remained there until after the explosion when she saw the dead and dying placed in ambulances. He could not recall Mrs. Edeau stating that she saw a suitcase placed.

Petersen was asked if she had spoken to him saying that she had been at 721 Market street and Third and Market streets. He said no, that she had told him this at her home where he had examined her in the presence of Attorney McKenzie, Charles Brennan, Fremont Older and Inspector Smith, and that no attempt was made to intimidate her.

He testified that she said at this time: "I did not recognize those men in the city prison, chief, but in my soul I knew they were guilty."

CONTRADICTS TESTIMONY.

This directly contradicts the testimony of Mrs. Edeau.

The state succeeded in introducing certain conspiracy evidence, including two letters from E. B. Morton, dated October 23 and 27, 1915, relative to launching the "Blast," and this afternoon endeavored to get in a letter from Alexander Berkman to Thomas Mooney, signed "Sacha," relative to the continuation of the Blast.

Felix Frankfurter, secretary and counsel of the President's mediation commission, which will investigate the Preparedness Day parade cases, was in conference with District Attorney Charles M. Fickert this morning relative to the testimony in previous trials, including that of the grand jury.

AT CAMP KEARNY

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 12.—The 101st battalion of the 143d field artillery arrived at Camp Kearny this morning from the Presidio. They were detrained and given permanent quarters with the two other battalions at the 143d already at camp. The battery consists of 429 men and 14 officers, fully equipped.

STATE BRIEFS

SEATTLE, Nov. 12.—Mrs. George Courage, forty years old, is today at the city hospital in a serious condition, suffering from a bullet wound in her head inflicted by her divorced husband, George Courage, at their home last night. Courage ended his own life by firing a bullet into his brain after he thought he had killed his wife. Courage had pleaded in vain with Mrs. Courage to remarry him.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—Less than three weeks after he "hit the sawdust trail" here during Billy Sunday's revivals, Gus M. Stracham returned to sin, he told the police. He was arrested early today in the act of robbing a house, the police declare.

San Felice Cigar Now 6c

The high standard of quality of the San Felice cigar will be maintained. During the past year the increases in taxation, raw material and wages have been so great that it is impossible to continue to sell San Felice cigars at the old price.

It is necessary that we advance the price of San Felice cigars to 6c. To our many friends who smoke the San Felice cigar because of its high quality we ask a continuance of your patronage. San Felice cigars now 6c. The Deisel-Wemmer Co., Lima, Ohio.—Advertisement.

PRINCE FEARS FOR SAFETY OF WORKS OF ART

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—Fear for the safety of his mother and brother and apprehensive that his collection of art and sculpture in his villa on Lake Maggoire, seventeen miles from Milan, Italy, will fall into the hands of the advancing German-Austrian armies, was felt yesterday by Prince Paul Troubetzkoy, sculptor, who is here with Princess Troubetzkey.

"My mother and my brother Prince Louis are in Milan," the Prince said yesterday. "My brother and I are interested in a large ammunition plant there. Before the war this factory manufactured automobile parts.

"My villa on Laco Maggoire was built only a few years ago, and is one of the finest places on the shore. It stands on twelve acres and contains two ateliers filled with my best works."

ROADHOUSE RAID MEETS RESISTANCE

BERKELEY, Nov. 12.—As the aftermath of a battle between Marshal John L. Glavinovich and fifteen men in Homestead Garden roadhouse, West Albany, yesterday, in which he was severely beaten on the head, Glavinovich will today swear out warrants for the arrest of several of his alleged assailants. Glavinovich declares that Alfred O. Moore, proprietor of the place, hit the blow which knocked him out. Gambling charges may be brought against Moore and his companions, and the Berkeley police, it is said, may also prefer charges against Moore for selling liquor without a license.

During the fight between Glavinovich and the men, two automobiles of Berkeley policemen hurried to the scene in answer to a riot call, and found the men barricaded behind barred doors. It was deemed advisable to hold the arrest of the men in abeyance until warrants could be obtained. The authorities decided that an attempt to break down the barricade without authority of the law would interfere with the prosecution of the men.

WOMAN PHONES TIP.

The raid upon the Albany resort was made in response to an anonymous call received at the Berkeley police headquarters yesterday afternoon. The information that gambling was going on was given by a woman.

"My husband is gambling and drinking at the Moore place with a house full of women and men," she said.

Marshal Glavinovich was notified and went alone to the roadhouse, which is situated across Cordinices creek from the Berkeley line.

Upon entering the resort, he says, he found fifteen men drinking and gambling with dice. Seizing a handful of silver coins from the gaming table, Glavinovich attempted to place Moore under arrest. Struggling amid overturned tables, the marshal was getting the better of his man when companions of Moore joined in the fray and dragged Moore aside.

MARSHAL IS STRUCK.

Several of the men ran to the rear of the place and the marshal beat off the remainder and led Moore to the door. Here Moore is alleged to have drawn a blunt instrument and to have hit his captor as he was being handcuffed. Moore then fled to the back of the resort barring the door.

Declaring that he knew a number of the men in the place Glavinovich said he would secure warrants for their arrest today. He continued: "When I asked Moore if he was selling liquor on the tables, he replied that he was merely entertaining the men and the booze was free. When I seized him he said:

"You will never arrest me," and his companions forced me to the door.

The Berkeley police who appeared on the scene were led by Officers H. P. Lee and D. H. Frazier.

CAMPAIGN BEGUN FOR Y.M.C.A. FUND

RICHMOND, Nov. 12. — This city is now in the midst of an active campaign to quickly secure the $5000 asked from it by the war work council of the Y. M. C. A. Everything is ready for the drive for the funds which starts today.

The headquarters at 611 Macdonald avenue have been furnished with the necessary fixtures, and someone will be in charge all week to receive money and pledges and to answer questions about the work.

The seven teams, which have been filled by the captains, will render daily reports of the work done. The first big meeting of the workers is scheduled for this evening at the Richmond club house where all will meet at a 6 o'clock dinner to complete the details of the campaign.

The seven captains who will direct the work of the teams are:

Rev. Frank Linder, Mrs. J. G. Gerlach, Mrs. Clara Wilson, Councilman H. O. Watson, Captain Oscar Long, C. W. Ames and one other yet to be selected.

Talks in local pulpits were made by pastors and Y. M. C. A. workers last evening, emphasizing the need for general co-operation in the work of raising the money. An enthusiastic response for the work was met with in every place.

SOLDIER WRITES OF HARD FIGHTS

BERKELEY, Nov. 12. — Word of how he had been "gassed" and wounded and is now recovering in a London hospital has reached his parents here from John Stanley Richardson, formerly a medical student at the University of California, who went to France with the Canadian Mounted Rifles at the outbreak of the war in 1914.

Richardson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mead Richardson of 2014 Virginia street and a brother of Miss Violet Richardson, physical director in the Berkeley public schools. He gave up his medical studies at the university a number of years ago and went to Canada to become a teacher. He left his home at Mira, British Columbia, to join the Canadian expeditionary force at the commencement of war and has been through some of the hardest fighting on the French front. His wife and three children are living with his parents here.

Y. M. C. A. DRIVE ON

BERKELEY, Nov. 12. — The Y. M. C. A. campaign to raise $30,000 in Berkeley for war work is in full swing today, following the opening yesterday when special services were held in Berkeley churches. Y. M. C. A. war work was taken by most of the pastors as their theme in the morning sermons. Some of the churches organized special team work from their membership to aid in campaigning for funds.

To conform with current military usage, the general divisions of the workers' corps have been renamed, and will be known as the "Navy," the "Army" and the "Aviators," to be directed by Division Chairman E. E. Nichols, B. J. Williams and Mrs. Ralph Merritt, respectively.

PREPARE MORE BOXES.

RICHMOND, Nov. 12. — Having finished the 350 boxes to be sent as Christmas presents to soldier boys, the Richmond Red Cross women are engaged in the preparation of 350 more. This is being done at the request of the headquarters to fill the needs of men who have enlisted or been called since the first boxes were started. Enough funds have been raised to pay for the first boxes and give a start on the second.

GAS UNITS LOW; CITY TO PROTEST

That the heat units per cubic foot in gas supplied in the city by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company have been reduced to an appreciable extent and that the matter should be presented to the State Railroad Commission when that body takes up the application of the company for an increase in gas rates on this side of the bay, was a proposition laid before the city council today by Commissioner F. F. Jackson. The matter was referred to the city attorney to lay before the proper authorities for consideration before the hearing commences in January.

Commissioner Jackson based his action upon a report made by Carl E. Hardy, superintendent of the electrical department. The report reads:

"It appears that there has recently been an appreciable reduction in the average number of heat units per cubic foot of gas. This is shown by calorimeter tests that have been taken from time to time. If this is checked and confirmed by the engineers of the Railroad Commission it might have a pertinent bearing upon the pending hearing before the commission in the matter of the application of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for an increase in rates for gas."

DENY CHARGES

Mrs. C. R. Miramontes, formerly known as Miss Rose Crandall, appeared at the police station today and denied that she was in any way involved in the robbery of a store conducted by O. W. Jaycox at 906 Broadway. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. L. M. Jones, who explained that Jaycox had left them in charge of the store, but that they were obliged to leave it. Jaycox has withdrawn his statements involving the two women.

OLD FOLKS NEED 'CASCARETS' FOR LIVER, BOWELS

Salts, Calomel, Pills Act on Bowels Like Pepper Acts in Nostrils.

Enjoy Life! Don't Stay Bilious, Sick, Headachy and Constipated.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.—Advertisement.

OLD AGE A CRIME!

Some people are young at sixty—red cheeked, ruddy and vigorous. Others are old at forty—joints beginning to stiffen up a bit; step beginning to lag and lose its springiness; occasional touches of pain in the back, feel tired without cause, and possibly of twinge of rheumatic pain.

In most cases these are the danger signals to warn you that the kidneys are not promptly doing their work of throwing off the poisons that are always forming in the body. To neglect these natural warnings is a crime against yourself. If you have these symptoms you can find prompt relief in GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. For more than 200 years this has been the recognized remedy for kidney and bladder ailments.

PERSHING ORDERS NEW ARMY WING

AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Nov. 12.—America's industrial generals and captains now aiding the army in France were today moulded into a separate, distinct force in a new transportation department created by order of General Pershing. Major-General W. W. Atterbury, who was formerly operating head of the Pennsylvania railway lines, was named as commander-in-chief of the new unit.

"The new organization is already achieving excellent results," General Pershing declared. "Thus through the industrial generals and captains, American organizing ability is supporting the generals and captains of fighting forces.

"The arrangement means that hereafter the quartermaster's corps will be only a distributing factor in the general supply scheme. The transportation department will handle all transportation of troops and material from vessel to rail heads.

"It will likewise have charge of construction work for transportation, thus relieving American army engineers of a big portion of their present task."

The announcement was made by General Pershing after a complete tour of inspection of all ports of arrival, communication lines, supply bases and general depots. It was plain the American commander-in-chief was pleased with the entire layout.

"Thanks to the efficiency of the British, French and American naval protection," he said. "German submarines have not claimed a single life of an American soldier on a troopship bound for France. Troops and supplies are arriving in increasing numbers."

INDIAN WOMAN GETS PERMIT TO PEDDLE RELICS

Mrs. Mary Lehan, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, who is the mother of twenty-one children, visited Chief of Police J. H. Nedderman today and was given a license to vend Indian relics in Oakland. She carried with her recommendations and permits issued by the authorities of nearly every state in the Union, beginning with an endorsement from Governor Shallenberger of Nebraska.

Speaking in good English Mrs. Lehan said:

"Life on the reservation did not appeal to me. I needed more money so started out to earn my own living. Some of my daughters have lots of land and some have oil land and money, but I would rather wander about the country than stay in one place."

Mrs. Lehan visited Mayor Davie also.

"Fine looking man," she commented. Nice mustache.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Wildes arrived today today from Carson City for a winter visit in Oakland. Mrs. Wildes is one of the city's heaviest property owners, owning Broadway land and a large part of the land on which Oakland's Chinatown is situated.

Arthur O. Dixon, of Butte county, well known in mining circles, is wintering in Oakland, it being impossible to work his claims during the snow season. He is the guest of A. L. Lean at the St. Mark for a few weeks, after which he will visit the South.

Dr. C. K. Barton of Oregon is a guest at the Mendo. He is in Oakland for a few days on business.

Sam Rosenthal, who for several days has been at Hotel Oakland, left today for Los Angeles. He is one of the officers of the Western Travelers' Association, a New York body composed of "drummers" who journey to California.

Local Draft Boards Begin Task

Tabulate All Men in New Classes

Preparations were begun today by local draft boards to undertake the next task in the national draft—the one President Wilson has announced will be the greatest task of all—in listing all of the registered men not already certified for duty under the new questionaire system that will in future segregate every man under a class, classes to be called after the individuals have been placed in them.

The new system, when once in working order, will eliminate almost entirely the trouble and delay under which the local draft boards worked in getting together Oakland's first increment for the national army.

The new regulations provide for the sending of the questionaires to every registered man not already drafted when the blanks arrive from Washington. The answers to these questions will be checked up by secret service operatives, and the men will then be divided into the classes set forth by the President's orders.

The greatest problem will be in getting assistance in handling the task. Doctors and lawyers have been asked to volunteer for the work, and the county council of defense may be called upon to aid in handling the work. One plan that has been strongly urged is that army physicians conduct the examinations in future, that so many men may not be sent back from the cantonment.

Local Board No. 7 today issued a list of men exempted and those chosen for service. The exemptions granted are as follows:

Emilie A. Forget, 1025 Fifty-first avenue; Geo. E. Hanley, 1969 Eighty-third avenue; Ralph W. Shepard, 9515 Plymouth street; Ludwig Riedel, 4507 Brookdale; Albert A. News of the Churches

By S. M. Burritt, Church Editor

On the first Sunday after the big drive for go to Sunday school day, the Sunday schools of Oakland evinced most telling effects of the efforts put forth by not only a large increase in attendance yesterday over October 28, but also in membership. This applies not only to Oakland Sunday schools, but to Fruitvale, Berkeley, Alameda, San Leandro and Melrose.

Though not so much as has been evident, the general topic of the pulpits yesterday related to war but were mostly along the lines of conservation.

The Christian Endeavor society of Plymouth Congregational church will next Sunday give reports on the conservation of food by their various families. Rev. Albert W. Palmer spoke at the evening church service of Plymouth on "Army Life From the Inside," and said in part:

"Good as well as bad, is coming out of this war. The care and concern that is evinced for the men at the training camps, the men who are in the trenches ready to go 'over the top,' will when it is all over, be evinced in the handling of the great social problems."

Rev. H. A. Van Winkle of First Christian church is drawing large congregations with his series on "Ideals" and last evening for the second time this church was crowded, the Endeavorers coming to the front in a body to fill about 100 seats. Letters of five young men on "Women's Ideals" proved equally interesting as those of the young women of the Sunday evening before.

GO TO INFIRMARY.

The young people of Berkeley First Baptist church about twenty-five in number, and the Dano-Norwegian Baptist young people under August Miller went to the infirmary yesterday to cheer the inmates and held meetings in the chapel. Misses Dorothy and Helen Whiting sang and Miss E. Edwards rendered a whistling solo.

REV. SILSLEY SPEAKS.

Rev. Frank M. Silsley, D. D., preaching at the First Presbyterian church last night on "Can A Business Man Be a Christian?" said:

"Business men for the most part are the great community and world leaders. It is their lack of professionalism and the posession of whole heartedness that makes them so effective. Lawyers, doctors and ministers are still effective as public leaders, but the business man is exalting the leadership that has the 'punch' and the drive. The great moral reforms are being achieved today because they are enlisting the sturdy, common sense and approval of the business men.

"And possibly as much as any factor the genius and energy of the American business man will win this war. One of the finest chapters in the present crisis is the rally of business men to the support of the President and the army. Business men can be Christians for they are today trying to prevent the world from turning back to barbarism and force and Alexander the Great."

SERVE LUNCHEON.

The Christian Endeavorers served a luncheon previous to their regular service at First Presbyterian. This was the third time they served luncheon and they are pleased with the success of the undertaking. Messrs. Robert Chaseman, C. C. Williams and Ben Small acted as cooks.

REV. MILNES SPEAKS.

The Rev. John Stephens of First M. E. is in Philadelphia and the pulpit was filled in the morning by the Rev. Dr. H. Milnes, district superintendent, who preached a forceful sermon on "The Peril and Power of Pilgrims." The evening service was preceded by a "big sing," after which the Rev. Harry Owen, associate pastor, preached on "The Man Who Wrecked a Kingdom," beginning a series for "Win-My-Chum Week," which he will continue every night this week. The Senior and Mizpah Epworth Leagues met at 6:15. S. H. May led on the topic "Taking Men Alive," the first of the "Win-My-Chum" series.

GIVES WAR SERMON.

The Rev. W. I. Kerr of Brooklyn Presbyterian church preached a war sermon last evening and said:

"We can't be indifferent; we can't dodge the issues before us. Individual neutrality is impossible at this time. Everyone must be an American and must be concerned with the great things that are going on 'over there'."

FIRST BAPTISTS.

The First Baptist Sunday school was crowded yesterday morning again, and A. E. Caldwell, the superintendent, is also delighted with the results of Go-to-Sunday-School Day."

TEMPLE SINAI.

The Hebrew Congregation of Temple Sinai is rapidly increasing in numbers and interest, especially along Sunday school lines. The kindergarten, under the supervision of Miss Hilda Abrahamson, was the best of the school yesterday, every member being present with some visitors.

TRINITY METHODIST.

At Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Berkeley, Dr. Carl M. Warner preached Sunday morning on "The Super-Man."

"The philosophy of Nietzsche," declared Dr. Warner, "is selfishness raised to the one hundredth degree. It teaches that no ideal, principle or force in man shall be repressed if it expresses natural in its environment. Nietzsche's philosophy hates religion because there it encounters 'Thou shalt not.' It hates democracy for the same reason and recognizes but two classes—the fit and the unfit."

"Bernard Shaw, H. G. Wells and other English writers evidence the influence of the Nietzschian philosophy in modern literature. But," declared Dr. Warner, "the super-man has been here. Those who contemplate the submissive and the Crucified Christ alone need now to look upon Him in the strength of his soul. There are indirect suggestions of great strength in the records of his life which prove that the Lamb of God was also the Lion of Judah."

SAILOR ARRESTED

Sergeant Charles L. Hemphill last night took into custody Frank LaChance at Seventh and Broadway after he had accepted 75 cents from Private George Williams with which to purchase a pint of whisky, according to a report made by the police to the federal authorities today.

Theodore Aguirre, a sailor, stationed at Mare Island, was taken into custody by Patrolmen J. F. McCarthy and R. H. Spencer, after he complained that he had given Charles Harrington $1.25 with which to purchase whisky, but he had kept the money. Harrington was also arrested pending further investigation by the federal authorities.

DREAD DISEASE HAS NO TERRORS

CAMP LEWIS, Nov. 12.—Spinal meningitis, as treated by the new serum used by physicians in the base hospital, will have no special terror for those exposed to the disease. The first case in this camp is now practically cured and the three others are on the road to health. The men are all recovering without the aftermath of paralysis, distortion, weakened senses and other ailments commonly the lot of those who survive an attack of this malady.

Construction work on a great amusement "city" is to begin this week. The first buildings will be six motion picture houses and four vaudeville theaters, each seating from 1000 to 2000 people. Following these will be built two dancing pavilions, two billiard halls, one roller skating pavilion, three restaurants and cafeterias, four or five cigar stores, two barber shops, two oyster houses, one tailor shop, one shoe shop and garage and one combination bank and postoffice.

Every concessionaire must apply to Major-General H. A. Greene, accompanying his bid for a place of business with a certified check for a certain percentage of the entire cost of the building. He will pay no rent, but he must turn over to the government a certain percentage of the profits, and the government will have its own accountants and bankers on the grounds.

Soldiers who go to France from Camp Lewis will have at least one accomplishment to show the natives. E. F. Davies, camp musical director, has a dream of 20,000 men marching through the streets of Paris singing "La Marseillaise" in French. And to make that dream come true he is rehearsing his soldier-students daily in the French national anthem. Copies of the song printed in French have been distributed to the men and the pronunciation is carefully taught.

SHIP IS FLOATED

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 12.—The Grand Trunk steamer Prince John, which ran aground near the entrance of Aliford Bay, Queen Charlotte Islands, was floated at high tide and has sailed for Massett. After the steamer had grounded the passengers were taken off and landed at Lena Island, but as the vessel was found to be seaworthy after floating they were again taken on board. The extent of the damage sustained by the steamer is not known. The weather has moderated.

TEARS TO TERROR, ORPHEUM GAMUT

There is nothing like a good vaudeville bill to give one a rapid series of emotions, to take his mind off of war taxes and Hooverizing and to send him home full of jig-steps and new jokes. At the Orpheum this week one goes all the way from "ooh" to "ah," tears to terror, giggles to gasps, and thrills to chills. He dives to the bottom of the Atlantic in a submarine, torpedoes a battleship, visits a mysterious fortune teller, hears a lot of music and sees a lot of dancing and enjoys himself every minute.

The thriller of the bill is the "Submarine F-7," a realistic presentation of the interior of one of Uncle Sem's divers in war time and the narrow escape of its crew.

Eleanor Haber, remembered for her presentation of "The Office Lady," has a novel act in "The Woman of a Thousand Secrets,' an ideal sketch for the variety stage. In it she is a "fake" seeress, who learns to mend her ways after a bit of spirited advice has been done by a well-chosen company. All the element of surprise and tension needed to make the offering "go over big' is there and Miss Haber is ideally cast.

Milo is billed as a mystery and a surprise so it is not fair to reveal the secret. One may safely say that it is not Miss Venus D. of the same name, a cigarette or a corset. Milo was called back any number of times. Another act that won tumultuous applause, perhaps the loudest and longest of the evening, was Deiro, a young man who has pushed his way to the front on an accordeon. Since Cl Holler played one of these contraptions at Perkins' Corners there has been no more jazz coaxed out of one.

Nina Payne is a classic dancer with a sense of humor. She has gently burlesqued some of the familiar measures with a laughable and artistic result. "The Cleopatra Cakewalk," in which she makes her arms behave like lengths of rubber hose; and the "Pen Picture Prance" are numbers distinctly her own and worth going far to see. "Skeet" Gallagher, who pretends he has no wits, and pretty Irene Martin offer nonsensicalities; there is a posing act in which several dogs and a white horse appear; and Miss Fleta Brown does some unusual things with a voice of varied possibilities. If anyone has wondered what the man must look like who wrote "Egypt in Your Dreamy Eyes," he will be satisfied, for, in this act, Herbert Spencer, the composer, plays on the piano and adds a bit of song. There is a comedy picture and an animated weekly.—A. E. S.

BOY SHOWS GRIT

Because of his unusual stamina and his determination to get back to school, Dr. George C. Reinle believes that Kenneth Dimmick, the 10-year-old boy whose skull was fractured by being struck by a batted ball as he sat in the grandstand at the Bay View Playground yesterday, will recover. Dr. Reinle, who attended at the boy's birth, fought for ten hours yesterday to preserve the lad's life.

The injured boy is the son of Virgil Dimmick, a railroad employee.

Are You Half Sick?

It is difficult for thin blooded, anemic people to win the position their mental gifts entitle them to, because weak, sluggish blood keeps the body constantly in a half-sick, half-well condition. 'People who really do things are usually red-blooded people.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

"The Red Blood Builder"

A valuable tonic for the weak, the run-down, the aged, and the anemic. It rebuilds the health at its very source—the blood—by adding to it thousands of new, rich, red blood cells, and by charging the blood with plentiful quantities of the easily digested iron required to tone and reconstruct the depleted vital fluid.

With plenty of blood rich in iron and red cells coursing through the veins, poisons are soon thrown out. Appetite, vigor and ambition are encouraged to return and usually do return, unless the patient is afflicted with a serious malady.

Pepto-Mangan's taste is pleasantly aromatic. It cannot cause indigestion nor injure the teeth. Fastidious people and children like it.

Friendly Warning: Reject all but Gude's Pepto-Mangan which is the only genuine preparation. True Pepto-Mangan is sold only in the bottle and package pictured here, and is never sold in bulk. Read circular around bottle. For sale by all druggists.

Plays & Players

Potash and Perlmutter at Macdonough Tonight

That clever stories, even if they are devoid of thrills and plots to grip the attention of the readers, may be made into clever plays has been demonstrated by the instantaneous and phenomenal success of "Potash and Perlmutter" and the new comedy of "Potash and Perlmutter in Society," fashioned for stage presentation by Rol Cooper Megrue from the latest tales of the cloak and suit merchants from the pen of Montague Glass.

The new play, which is in every detail of dialogue, situation and story, different than its predecessors, has been adapted from the stories of recent writing. Abe Potash and Mawruss Perlmutter have become familiar characters all over the United States as well as in London and the English provinces.

Charles Ray in T. & D. Offering

Picture in your mind the spectacle of a millionaire's son steeped in extravagance and indulgence—a drone in a world of busy men and women. Then visualize an irate father who demands the spendthrift's redemption and the son's retaliation that provided with $5000 he will go West and amass $100,000 within six months.

That's the story of "The Son of His Father," now playing at the new T. & D. theater and featuring Charles Ray as the spendthrift profligate. But these few lines don't half depict the thrills the hero encounters before he makes good—or the heart interest that makes the Cullum book one of the best ever offered for screen dramatization. Characters are visualized and made to act as the book intended, but they are clothed with an action that is providing genuine entertainment at the T. & D.

Additional attractiveness is lent to the T. & D. program this week by another George Ade fable in slang and a Pathe picture showing all the latest world events. Billy Sunday is shown making his great Liberty Loan speech in this city.

Gripping Films Are Features at American

Virginia Pearson in "Thou Shalt Not Steal" and Julia Sanderson in "The Runaway" are the productions at the American Theater today and until Tuesday night, in addition to an excellently timed Animated Weekly and overture number by John Wharry Lewis and his orchestra.

"Thou Shalt Not Steal" provides Virginia Pearson with her opportunity to portray a typical American girl character extricating herself from an unfortunate engagement contracted by her father for a consideration of $100,000. An effort to void the contract by stealing the money temporarily results in the fortune being stolen from her. Only after one of the most remarkable investigations by a brilliant detective is the light of the truth made to dawn, proving that Lord Haverford has been guilty, his purpose being to tighten his clutch upon the girl.

Julia Sanderson in the title role of "The Runaway" proves the truth of the idea that a girl of character and ability may overcome the handicap of a country girl lured to New York by the footlights.

Franklyn Farnum Seen at Franklin

Franklyn Farnum presents his smiling and agile shadow-self on the screen at the Franklin theater today and tomorrow. This "Anything Once" is a comedy-drama of the most hilarious import, describing in thrills and sensations the contest an Eastern "rounder" waged against his neighbors in the far West who would frighten him away from the ranch that a wealthy uncle had willed him upon condition that he live there six months before coming into full possession of his valuable heritage. The young man, to fulfill all conditions, must marry a certain pretty and distant cousin within the six months' time, as a second condition of the eccentric rancheman's will. When the Easterner cannot be frightened in attempt is made to kidnap his prospective bride. All ends in the "a la Franklyn Farnum mode."

"The Man Hater" is playing at the Franklin. The old aphorism that "as we sow, so shall you reap" is true as brought home. Says Winifred Allen, the star, "Phemie is very human and she is easily awakened by jealousy to the fact that she loves her husband she wastes no time in getting the other woman out of the way, and claiming him for her very own. And it seems to me that is such a sensible thing to do. When you find out what you really want, even if it be a bit late, go after it. I have no patience with women who are not honest with themselves. Jealousy, which has been abused by all the men poets, doesn't seem to me to be such a bad thing after all. If it brings with the happiness of understanding, as in Phemie's case."

Good Melodrama Is Presented at Bishop

There is nothing better in the way of theatrical entertainment than good melodrama. This is "Under Cover," presented at the Bishop yesterday for the second week of Crane Wilbur's special season with the stock players. It is a good old-fashioned criminal story woven around the habit of a certain class of women and men smuggling goods through the customs, and the fixing of the offense of grafting and blackmailing on a crooked deputy surveyor by the clever ness of a secret service agent.

Roi Cooper Magrue, the author of the play, shows an intimate knowledge of the secret service in its quest of lawbreakers. He has adroitly fashioned an entertaining narrative of a pretty woman of gentle birth and high social position who is forced by circumstances to aid the government's agents in tracing the person suspected of smuggling into the United States a necklace valued at $200,000.

Crane Wilbur takes the role of Steven Denby, the secret service man. Jane O'Roarke was charming as Ethel, the girl in the case; George Knowlton scored a success in the role of an American society woman, and Eleanor Parker was a success in an ingenue part. Ben Erway acquitted himself well in the role of Steven's nervous confederate in love with the ingenue. The play is to continue throughout the week.

Hall Caine Film Seen at Kinema

Hall Caine's best-known novel, "The Manxman," is being presented at the Kinema, today and all of this week, in a manner that is unusual, first in that the author himself has actually made over his plot and brought his characters to life, supervising personally the production. Secondly, in that as the picture is the classic of that little nation who inhabit the Isle of Man, it is befitting that this little nation should take part in the producing of it. They did with a full heart.

The newspapers on the island called on every inhabitant to lend every aid in making it the world's greatest success.

Another noteworthy fact is that several descendants of the original characters take parts in the story. In fact, the whole spirit of the production breathes the Isle of Man. Hall Caine and "The Manxman."

"One Touch of Nature Makes the Whole World Kin."

It's a commendable trait that when something has been of benefit to us, we want to share it with others who stand in need of the same help. It's the touch of nature that makes the whole world kin—the wanting to be helpful to our fellowmen. That is why people who have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy write letters to the manufacturers about it, and ask to have their talk led so that others will know what to do under the same circumstances. Behind every one of these letters is the warm-hearted wish of the writer to be of use to some one else. For sale by Osgood Bros. Drug Stores.—Advertisement.

In debt to Father Time

(Staunch wagon wheels and mellow tobacco)

Here are two wagon wheels. One staunch and steady, ready to bear the heaviest load. The other rickety, ready to fall to pieces. Why the difference?

The wood for one was well seasoned, well cured. The wood for the other was not.

With the OWL and other good cigars, time-curing is equally important.

That is why we keep on hand constantly mellowing and curing at least $1,000,000 worth of OWL leaf.

Not a leaf of this great reserve ever gets into your OWL Cigar until it has been mellowed by the softening influence of many long months of time-curing. Only when the watching experts declare that Father Time has gotten OWL leaf "ready" in mellowness and fragrance is it fashioned into OWL Cigars.

See for yourself how this careful time-curing has made the OWL Cigar a fragrant and satisfying smoke. Buy an OWL in the nearest cigar store.

To east bay society one of the most interesting announcements is the marriage of Mrs. William Lynham Shiels of Piedmont and Charles Henry Shiels, which took place Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at the residence of Rev. Father Edgar Gee of St. Peter's Episcopal church. No previous announcement of the betrothal had been made known to the friends of the couple and plans for the ceremony included but the short motor trip to the rector's house.

Mrs. Shiels is the daughter of Mrs. Charles A. Bennet of Oakland, and was Miss Elsie Bennet, a local belle, before her marriage to the late William Lynham Shiels.

The bridegroom is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Shiels, who have been prominently identified in the social and civic life of the community. His brothers are Dr. J. Wilson Shiels of the Letterman hospital at the Presidio, and Dr. George Franklin Shiels, now with Pershing and a major in the army. Mrs. Ernest K. Johnstone of London, wife of a noted surgeon in service, and Mrs. Robert T. Allen of Redlands are his sisters.

Shiels is a graduate of Edinburgh University in Scotland, and is a member of the Bohemian, Olympic and University clubs of San Francisco. He is president of the Shiels estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Shiels are now at their home in Piedmont.

The transferring of many California young men in the Officers' Training Camp, or Naval Reserve, to other parts of the country has caused an exodus of Oakland and Piedmont families to the East, at least for a short time, since there is no knowing when their boys will be called across the seas. Among the first of the Aviation Corps, which trained at the University of California, to arrive in France is Edward von Adelung Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward von Adelung, of Oakland. He left two or three weeks ago for foreign duty and together with others of the aviators is undergoing a course of training under French instructors.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul O. Tietzen left last week for San Pedro to visit their son Herbert, who is with the coast guards and is taking a technical course preparatory to taking an examination for a commission as ensign. He was to have entered Harvard University following his graduation from the University of California.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler Jr., is now stationed at Fort Sill in Oklahoma. He is a second lieutenant, having received his commission at the Officers' Reserve camp at the Presidio and later was transferred to his present station. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ide Wheeler left last week for the east and will visit their son as well as attend one or two important conferences of eastern educators.

In observance of their golden wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Thompson held a reception Wednesday evening last in the parlors of the Myrtle street Congregational church, chrysanthemums in the fall tones and Scotch broom artistically used in the appointment of the rooms.

Beneath a large floral wedding bell, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson received the congratulations of their friends. The Lohengrin wedding march was played by C. M. Emerson, their son-in-law. Those who made up the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Thompson and their sons, John and Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. F. I. Thompson and their little daughter Evelyn, who served as flower maiden, and Mrs. C. M. Emerson, matron of honor.

Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Emerson wore their bridal gowns. Following the informal reception a wedding supper was served, C. M. Emerson acting as toast-master and responses being made by F. B. Thompson, Mrs. M. W. Larson, Mrs. Charles Heisen, W. H. Merrill and A. N. Farnsworth.

The fair at Mrs. Harry Allston Williams' home Saturday afternoon given by the group of eighteen little maidens, for the benefit of the French wounded was a decided success as well as a most interesting event. The Doctor, his Wife, and the Clock.

by Anna Katherine Green.

VIOLET Strange discovered in the afternoon a packet had been left at the door. The contents of that packet must be read, and she had made herself comfortable with the intention of setting to work at once. But ten o'clock struck and then eleven before she could bring herself to give any attention to the manuscript awaiting her perusal.

Her brother Arthur coming unperceived into the room, and peering earnestly into her face, observed with a seriousness quite unusual to him:

"Puss, you are looking worried. Getting tired of the business?"

"No—not altogether—that is, it's not that, if it's anything. I was only thinking——"

"Of some new case?"

"Not exactly."

"See here, Puss!" Arthur cried, "I've just come up from the den. Father and I have had a row—a beastly row."

"A row? You and father? Oh, Arthur, I don't like that."

"That's all right, Puss. Tomorrow I begin life as a salesman in Clarke & Stebbin's. The salary is not great, but every little helps and I don't dislike the business. But father does. That's why we quarreled. But don't worry. He hasn't an idea why I want to work. There, Violet, there!"

Two soft arms were around his neck and Violet was letting her heart out in a succession of sisterly kisses.

"Oh, Arthur, you good, good boy! Together we'll soon make up the amount, and then——"

"Then what? Who was that somber-looking chap I saw bowing to you as we came out of church last Sunday?"

"He? Surely you remember him. Have you forgotten that evening in Massachusetts—the grotto—and——"

"Oh, it's Upjohn, is it? I have noticed that he's always in his seat and always looking your way."

"That's very odd of him," she declared; "I can't imagine why he should do that."

"Nor I," retorted Arthur with a smile. "But he's human, I suppose. Only do be careful, Violet."

He was gone before he had fully finished this remark, and Violet, opening the packet, took out first a letter, and then a mass of typewritten manuscript.

She began with the letter, which was as characteristic as the writer as all the others she had had from his hand, as witness:

You probably remember the Hasbrouck murder. When you have well mastered this with all its details, please communicate with me, for I shall have a word to say to you then, which you may be glad to hear, if as you have lately intimated you need to earn but one or two more substantial rewards in order to cry halt to the pursuit for which you have proved yourself so well qualified.

So much for the letter.

Violet took up the manuscript.

Let us take it up, too. It runs thus:

On the 17th of July, 19—, a tragedy occurred in one of the residences of the Colonnade in Lafayette Place.

Mr. Hasbrouck, a well known citizen, was attacked in his room by an unknown assailant, and shot dead before assistance could reach him. His murderer escaped. The details of the investigation are here given by the man sent from headquarters at the first alarm.

The house in which the crime had been committed was near the center of the row, and, I learned from more than one source that the alarm was first given to the street by a woman's shriek, and second by the shouts of an old man servant.

The family, which consisted of Mr. Hasbrouck, his wife, and three servants, had retired for the night. At eleven o'clock the lights were all extinguished, and the whole household asleep, with the possible exception of Mr. Hasbrouck himself, who was frequently troubled with insomnia.

Suddenly Mrs. Hasbrouck awoke with a start. Had she dreamed the words that were ringing in her ears? Filled with something more than nervous apprehension, she flung herself to the floor, and tried to penetrate with frenzied glances the surrounding darkness. But the blinds and shutters both having been carefully closed, she found this impossible, and she was about to sink in terror to the floor, when she heard a low gasp on the other side of the room followed by a suppressed cry.

"God! what have I done!"

The voice was a strange one, but before the fear aroused by this fact could culminate in a shriek of dismay, she caught the sound of retreating footsteps, and, eagerly listening, she heard them descend the stairs and depart by the front door.

A carriage at that moment passed down Astor Place, bringing with it a sense of companionship and gave her strength to light the gas which was in ready reach of her hand. She cast one glance at the floor before her, when she found her worst fears realized by the sight of the dead body of her husband lying, with a bullet-hole in his forehead.

Her first impulse was to shriek, but, by a powerful exercise of will, she checked herself, and rang frantically for the servants.

As they appeared in the open doorway she pointed at her husband's inanimate form, and then, as if suddenly realizing in its full force the calamity which had befallen her, she threw up her arms and sank forward to the floor in a dead faint.

Indeed, everyone, both in the house and out, seemed dazed by the unexpected catastrophe, and as no one had any suspicions to offer as to the probable murderer, I had a difficult task before me.

I began in the usual way, by inspecting the scene of the murder. I found nothing in the room which added to the knowledge already obtained.

"I shall have to trouble Mrs. Hasbrouck for a short interview." I announced to the trembling old servant, who had followed me like a dog about the house.

He made no demur and in a few minutes I was ushered into the presence of the newly made widow.

Her grief was so real and her loss so recent that I hesitated to afflict her by questions. So returning to the scene of the tragedy, I stepped out upon the balcony which ran in front. Soft voices instantly struck my ears. The neighbors on either side were grouped in front of their own windows, and were exchanging remarks natural under the circumstances. I paused, being impressed by the appearance of a very graceful woman who stood at my right. She was clinging to her husband, who was gazing at one of the pillars before him in a strange fixed way which astonished me till he attempted to move, and then I saw that he was blind. I stood still till I heard her say in the soft and appealing tones of love:

"Come in, Constant; you have heavy duties for tomorrow, and you should get a few hours' rest if possible."

"Sleep," he repeated, "with murder on the other side of the wall."

"This way," she urged; and, guiding him into the house, she closed the window and drew down the shades.

I have no excuse to offer for my curiosity, but I did not leave the neighborhood till I had learned something of this remarkable couple.

The story told me was very simple. Dr. Zabriskie had not been born blind, but had become so after a grievous illness soon after he received his diploma. Instead of succumbing to an affliction which would have daunted most men, he expressed his intention of practicing his profession, and soon became so successful in it that he found no difficulty in establishing himself in one of the best paying quarters of the city.

He had been engaged to be married at the time of his illness, and when he learned what was likely to be the result offered to release the young lady from all obligation to him. But she would not be released, and they were married. This had taken place some five years previous to Mr. Hasbrouck's death, three of which had been spent by them in Lafayette Place.

So much for the beautiful woman next door.

LIGHT ROLLS WITH WHEAT SUBSTITUTES.

Today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, of Washington, codperating with this newspaper to conserve the food supply of the country, offers a good recipe for light rolls with wheat substitutes. Here it is:

2½ cups sifted wheat flour (more if necessary).

¾ cup wheat flour substitutes, as corn meal, rice flour, rye flour, oatmeal, soybean meal and peanut meal.

1 cup milk.

1 teaspoon salt.

3 tablespoons sugar.

2 tablespoons shortening.

½ cake dry yeast or ½ cup liquid yeast.

2 tablespoons lukewarm water.

All measurements are level full. Scald the milk and while hot dissolve it in the salt, sugar and shortening. When cooled until lukewarm add to this the yeast rubbed smooth with 2 tablespoons lukewarm water. (When liquid yeast is used its volume must be deducted from the total liquid. If dry yeast is used it should be soaked for an hour in 2 tablespoons of water before adding it to the other ingredients.)

Measure into a bowl 1½ cups of sifted flour and add to this gradually the mixture of milk, salt, sugar, shortening and yeast, so that it will be free from lumps. Beat well, cover and set aside to rise.

When the sponge is quite light beat until smooth and add to it gradually the mixture of 1 cup of flour and three-fourths cup of wheat substitute sifted together. Knead until a smoth, elastic dough is formed, adding more flour if required. Cover and set aside to rise. When very light, knead again until smooth. Cut or break off small pieces about the size of a hen's egg, roll between the palms of the hand until round and smooth, and place in greased biscuit tins not too closely together. Reserve one piece for an indicator. Allow to rise in the pans until two and one-half or three times the original volume and bake in a moderately hot oven 20 to 25 minutes.

NEWS of WOMENS CLUBS

By Edna B. Kinard

Campaigning continually to keep the schools full is one of the purposes of the National Council of Defense through the woman's committee and the various units of state, county and municipality which makes up its strength throughout the country. The need of every child in obtaining a full schooling is being given unmistakable emphasis not only by educators but by those who see what must come to the United States in the days of reconstruction. It is more important now than ever before when so much of our illiterate must stand the hazard of war that our coming citizens should be educated, not only particularly well trained individuals but well developed mentally. Yet it is not now easy and it still will be more difficult to keep the boys and girls in the classroom against the continually growing demand for labor, and the wages which are so easily earned. Already the question has been discussed and a superficial survey made in some neighborhoods by local war workers. A report from Chicago shows that since July 1 5200 working certificates have been issued. In Illinois some interesting figures have been compiled showing how lucrative the summer's work has been for boys and girls. Two hundred and nine boys earned $14.537, while eighty girls earned $1755, making a total of $16,282. The temptation to make immediate dollars will be a great one to ambitious youngsters and to parents whose bank accounts are not able to reach to the desires or even wants of the household. But for the sake of the future and what it must mean, not only to the individual but to the nation, the sacrifice is asked and the right of each child to an education is appealed for.

Mrs. Frederick C. Turner, chairman of the Alameda County Woman's Committee, National and State Councils of Defense, has made some interesting appointments to the directorships of the various departments which come under the war service of her body. Each chairman is getting the work of her committee well in shape and within a brief while will be able to make some interesting reports. The registration of women is the next campaign probably which will be asked and in the county Mrs. Carl Hardy will direct the big drive. Other chairmen who have accepted the responsibility of departmental work are: Americanization, Miss Martha Chickering. Mrs. Charles D. Haines; maintenance of existing social agencies, Miss Annie Florence Brown; public speaking, Mrs. H. F. Jackson; Red Cross and allied relief, Mrs. Thomas Mitchell Potter; home economics, Miss B. C. Prentiss; conservation, Mrs. V. M. Haring; production, Mrs. James Hamilton; Liberty Loan, Mrs. Wallace W. Briggs.

The advisory board of the county woman's unit includes Mrs. James B. Hume, Mrs. J. G. Kearney, Mrs. Aaron Schloss, Mrs. H. N. Rowell, Mrs. George Samuels, Mrs. A. O. Gott, Mrs. D. B. Strowbridge, Mrs. Charles H. King, Mrs. J. B. McMath, Miss Eva Powell, Miss Winifred Bangs.

This body of women, together with the chairmen of the city units of the Council of Defense in Alameda County is meeting on Wednesday morning in room 319, City Hall, to review the food conservation drive which has but just been concluded and to make plans for the immediate work which is before the organizations.

Five hundred pounds of service colored yarns are en route to Alameda county chapter, woman's section of the Navy League, and will shortly be ready for distribution at wholesale rates to the members. The pretty rooms of the league on Capwell's Roof Garden is a busy spot with its eager knitters, who are learning to make the regulation garments, the happy workers who have completed them and the coterie of officers who have built up an organization of 800 active members pledged to patriotism and a care for the boys in uniform. Already more than 100 full sets of five pieces, including the sleeveless sweater, the scarf, wristlets, socks and cap, have been sent to the enlisted men at Mare Island Navy Yard. To make quite sure that the lad who received their gift was the man who needed it, the local women forwarded the packages to Mrs. Lincoln Karmany, who personally made the presentation.

Since the beginning of the draft and the physical examination of the men by the draft boards, the State Board of Health has assigned to the Anti-Tuberculosis Society of Alameda County more than ninety patients for further examination or treatment. The majority of these men were unconscious that they had any tendency toward the white plague. The recognition by the State authorities of the organization which has been slowly developed in our midst and by our own peoples gives a deep gratification to those who have pioneered it. The great need which it answers to these men who have been exempted because of tuberculosis demands for the society a greater loyalty and financial assistance that it has ever had before.

Christmas packages for boys in khaki and blue will be packed all next week by that energetic committee under Mrs. Frank Avery, which is absorbing the greater part of the present interest in the Red Cross rooms at Seventeenth and Broadway streets. The gift boxes are lovely things, holding good things to eat—chocolate, figs, crackers, nuts and fruitcake gaily tied with Christmas ribbons—little comforts, soap, toothpaste, tobacco, necessities, writing materials, sewing materials, etc., and rolled in a bright bandana.

Oakland packages have found a popular favor and still larger grows the demand from the Red Cross for them. From an original request of 1700 the figures have grown to 3200, with willing hands ready to make up the full number. Wholesale rates have been given on every article which goes into the Yuletide greeting, and when one wholesale house has been bought out there stands another to take over the big order. A gift box can be made up for $1.50 by Mrs. Avery's committee, although the same package would cost an individual at least 100 per cent more. A gift of that sum will assure a man his visit from Santa Claus, or if one prefers a similar box may be made up by the donor.

Saturday night will see the last of the Christmas work completed.

An interesting session to talk over intimate matters pertaining to themselves is announced by the home department of Sequoia school for tomorrow afternoon. In connection with the business session there will also be a program.

Carl's Easter Egg Hunt

(By Howard R. Garis)

One day, when Uncle Wiggily Longears, the bunny rabbit, was out walking in the woods, looking for an adventure, he heard voices talking behind some bushes.

"I must see who they are," said the bunny, twinkling his pink nose very quietly indeed, so as to make no noise. Then he heard one voice say:

"Pooh! I wouldn't be like you for anything! The idea of having no tail!"

"I can't help it," said the second voice. "I never had any."

Uncle Wiggily looked and saw that the one who had first spoken was Jacko Kinkytail, the monkey boy, and the other was Buddy, the guinea pig boy, who had no tail and never expected to have one.

"You don't know all the fun you miss by not having a tail," went on Jacko. "Look, I can hang by mine and swing upside down," and he did that from the limb of a tree, just like the man in the circus tent.

"Don't you wish you could do that?" asked Jacko to Buddy.

"Yes," answered the guinea pig boy, "I guess I do. But I haven't any tail, and there must be a good reason for it."

"Pooh! No reason at all. It's only because your family hasn't sense enough to get you one," said Jacko, and he did not speak very politely.

"It isn't nice for Jacko to talk that way, and make fun of Buddy for something he can't help," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, as he hid behind the bushes. "I wonder what I can do to make that monkey boy have more sense. For sense is what he wants—he hasn't a bad heart."

So Uncle Wiggily stood there thinking, and, all of a sudden, he noticed that near him was a log with a hole in it—a sort of a knot hole, just about as large around as Jacko's tail.

Then the bunny rabbit gentleman saw that the tip end of Jacko's tail, as the monkey boy sat on the ground close to the log, was quite near the hole.

"I have it!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily to himself, and he meant he had the idea he wanted, and he also had Jacko's tail.

For the bunny reached through with the end of his red, white and blue striped rheumatism crutch that urse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy had gnawed out of a cornstalk, and with that crutch he poked Jacko's tail through the knothole in the log.

Jacko was so busy talking to Buddy Pigg about tails and why monkeys had such nice long ones that the little furry chap never felt Uncle Wiggily doing what the bunny rabbit did.

Once Mr. Longears had Jacko's tail through the hole, he tied a knot in it—tied a knot in Jacko's tail, I mean, but not in the knot hole.

"Well, now we shall see what happens next!" said Uncle Wiggily, with a twinkle of his pink nose.

"Yes, you certainly should have a tail," said Jacko to Buddy. "You're not at all stylish without one! Ahem!"

Then Jacko started to get up to take another swing in the tree tops, but all of a sudden he found himself fast to the log by his tail, which was through the hole.

"Oh, my!" chattered Jacko. "What has happened? I'm held fast! Some one has my tail. Oh, Buddy, dear, what shall I do? I fear a giant on the other side of the log has hold of my tail, and I can't look! I don't dare look!"

"I'll look for you," kindly said Buddy, who was a brave little heap.

Behind the log scrambled the little guinea pig boy, and he didn't see Uncle Wiggily, who had now hidden behind a bush. Buddy saw that Jacko's tail was in the hole in the log, and made fast so it could not be pulled out.

"Oh, Jacko!" cried Buddy. "There is no giant here! It's just that your tail slipped through the hole and has a knot in it so you can't pull it out again. I'll fix it for you."

So Buddy loosened the knot and Jacko could pull his tail out again, and the monkey boy said:

"Well, Buddy, that accident could never happen to you."

"And I'm glad it couldn't," said Buddy. "Tails are all right in their place, but not on me."

Hollis Beaten By Oakland in Great Battle

Alameda Heaver Allows Only One Hit Up to Eighth and Then Loses.

By Eddie Murphy

After being held to one hit in the first seven innings by "Babe" Hollis, the Oakland Natives got busy in the eighth inning when the rain was falling fast and bumped the California Pippin for four hits that netted them as many runs and more than enough to win them the ball game from Alameda, the final score being 5 to 2.

Before a larger crowd than that which turned out for the opening game last Sunday at Fruitvale, Hollis showed why he is hailed the king of the bush performers by displaying an assortment of curves that had the Oakland Native Sons swinging their heads off in the first seven innings.

ALAMEDA SCORED EARLY.

Alameda got off to a one-run lead in the first inning. Fleiger led off with a hit through Martin at second, Mackie sacrificed him to the keynote sack, from where he went to third on a single to right by Ross, and scored when Kremer cut loose a wild pitch.

Alameda added their second run in the third inning on three hits. Hollis was retired, Pessano to Starasinich, to open the inning. Pfleiger came through with a hit to right, which might have been cut off with a little faster fielding. Mackie lined one over third, too hot for Codington to take care of, Ross fanned and Billy Lane was purposely walked, but Crenna was on the job with a hit that scored Pfleiger.

The first hit to be made off Hollis came in the fourth inning and resulted in a score. Martin got the hit when he shot one toward MacKenzie, which he found too fast to handle. Pessano then laid down a bunt and Hollis threw wild to first, allowing Pessano to reach second and Martin wound up at third, and scored while Hanush was being retired at first on a throw from Crenna.

MARTIN TAKES TURN.

After this inning Kremer and Hollis went along in fine style. Kremer retired after the seventh inning in order to give "Speed" Martin a chance to keep his arm in trim. In the eighth he handled two assists himself for put outs at first, while the third man fouled to the catcher.

The last of the eighth, in which the Natives won the game, found the rain coming down heavily, but Alameda took the field, and Manager Broad of the Natives, believing that the game would be called after this inning, sent in Dutch Holstrum to bat for Kremer and the comedian of the diamond responded with a long drive to center field for two bases.

This drive was a signal for the Natives to start. With the ball skippery from the wet grass, Hollis seemed to have difficulty in making his curves break. Al Furrier laid down a bunt and beat the throw to first by a clever slide, Holstrum going to third. Paulino dumped another bunt and was thrown out at first while Dutch held third and Furrier went to second. Toots Bankhead proved to be the man of the hour by crashing a terrific single to center, scoring Holstrum and Furrier, and went to third on an error by Pfleiger. Starasinich was hit by a pitched ball and he and Bankhead worked a double steal. Paul Coddington's hit to center field scored both of them.

PLAYERS ARE SOAKED.

Although the players were just about soaked to their skins, they proved to be game and finished the game with Alameda taking its licks in the ninth. In this inning Martin added another assist to his credit and fanned the next two batters.

When the rain started falling the bleacher fans flocked into the grand stand and it was packed so that many were forced to remain from under cover.

It is the kind of pitching and playing that was dished up yesterday that the fans want to see, and if the same is continued the Fruitvale park is going to be packed every Sunday. Martin and Kremer toiled just as hard as they would in a real league game and with Hollis in his great form the fans saw some wonderful pitching.

Buz Arlett in Good Form; Hands Blank to the S. P. Outfit

The Maxwell Hardware club in the Class A division of the winter league tops the list with two wins and no defeats today as a result of a 6 to 0 win over the Southern Pacific boys at the St. Mary's lot yesterday. Buz Arlett showed up in great form out on the mound for the Maxwells, only one man going as far as third against him in the seven innings that were played before rain put a stop to the proceedings. Arlett fanned twelve men and was never in danger.

Despite the onesided score, the game was hard fought and good to watch, not an error being made on either side. Sinclair pitched for the railroad boys but could not keep the Maxwell hits scattered.

BOBBY WALTHOUR HOME.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. — Bobby Walthour, bicycle racer, is due in New York today to begin limbering up for the six-day grind beginning here December 2. Walthour has been racing in Europe.

Fred Anderson, Giant pitcher, put in a claim for exemption from the army draft on some grounds or other and the claim was denied. Now Anderson has taken his claim right up to Woody Wilson. If Anderson is obliged to serve in the army it will likely be in the dental corps. Fred is a real dentist by trade and took up pitching to improve his health.

Prough Does a Cicotte With A Mud Ball Without Any Mud

Maryland Bowlers Find Crockett Great Town But Take a Beating

By CARL E. BRAZIER

Bill Prough used the mud ball—that's the alibi that Cliff Blankenship is traveling around on today to explain the 5-to-2 beating that Crockett gave the Maryland Bowlers in the sugar town yesterday. And there's something to the alibi at that—Prough did a Cicotte to the Marylands—he didn't use much mud on the ball, but he made a bluff at spitting on it and then made another bluff at putting it on the dirt, but the ball did not look much the worse for wear, and the Crockett fans, who proved themselves among the best on earth, need not be in the least backward about talking about their win over Blankenship's team.

THE BEST OF FANS.

For those Crockett fans deserve all the credit in the world. They have set out to get a winning team and they have made a good start. They have set out to put their town on the baseball map and they have made a good start. They have set out to show the other ball clubs of the Winter League that they are good sports, and they have succeeded after just one day.

Even the rain that made the homeward journey a bit damp did not wipe out the memories of a great day as the guests of those Crockett fans. There was lunch waiting for the Maryland players when they reached town, there were plenty of guides to show the sights of the town, chief of which is a big community center clubhouse with every facility to make life worth living for the sugar refinery employees, then there was a ball park which had been groomed into better condition than any ball park in Oakland—Cal Ewing's little pasture not excepted; and after the game—oh, boy! Ask Dutch Reuther for further particulars.

SHOVES CAR OUT OF MUD.

Blankenship's boys went to Crockett by autos and they had a bunch of able chauffeurs; they had to be able drivers to get over those slippery adobe grades after the rain had been falling about ten minutes on the homeward journey. "Blend" Bryant was one of the chauffeurs and he came through in great shape; he had promised Cliff a car for the trip and when his own was out of commission, Bryant borrowed another. He did a little cussing at the boat at times, and the boys climbed out and shoved it back on the road for him once, but it would have taken more than that to take the joy out of that day in Crockett.

The ball game—that's something for Crockett to talk about today. Blankenship and his boys prefer to talk about the great trip and all the great things in Crockett; or they will talk about how near Roxey Middleton came to being dipped in the swimming pool, uniform and all. About the nearest that they will come to talking about the ball game is to howl about Bill Prough's mud-ball (that wasn't muddy) or to laugh at Umpire Connors, who was talked into calling a balk on Bill Prough and then wanted to send Fred Carman, the batter, to first base on the strength of the balk.

ROXEY WINS A HOME.

Roxey Middleton will probably run for mayor of Crockett or pound-man, or something anyway at the next election. Roxey could have brought home the "Welcome Crockett" archway if it had not been raining last night. For Roxey was a regular hero—Bill Prough was out there doing a heap of pitching, fanning fourteen and allowing the Marylands to hit only six balls out of the infield. But Roxey was the big fellow in the eyes of the home town boys. Roxey dropped a high fly back of the right field fence and circled the bases for the first run of the game. And it made him feel so good that in the fourth he drew a walk and tore loose for a steal of second, ambling on to third when Drolette heaved high to second, and scoring on Del Crespi's single over second.

Cliff Blankenship and Bill Leard had a good time trying to ride Umpire Connors on that mud-ball. But Prough was really heaving a great game. So was Menthe, the young pitcher whom Blankenship used. With more experience with the club Menthe looks like a good heaver. Cliff says that he will go in and catch next Sunday and he may steady Menthe a bit. Twice in the pinches yesterday Menthe failed to think quickly enough and a veteran catcher would have pulled him through better.

ERRORS HELP A LOT.

Errors figured in both of the runs scored off Prough. In the fourth Carman singled and went to second on Osgood's safety. Carman stole third, Osgood holding first. Then Osgood started for second and drew a throw, Raby heaving high on the return throw to the plate—Carman scoring. In the sixth Rube Gardner singled back of third; on a snap throw from Kilhullen to Crespi, the latter dropped the ball and it landed on Gardner's foot just as he was stepping back to the base. The ball rolled towards the bleachers and Rube stopped on second. Reuther's single put Gardner on third, and then Blankenship talked Umpire Connors into calling a balk on Prough to let in the run.

The only time that the Marylands looked dangerous was in the second frame when Reuther singled and went to second on a bad throw by Maas. Carman fanned but Osgood singled and stole second. There were men on second and third with only one out, but Prough tightened and pulled out of the hole by fanning Drolette and Menthe.

PING BODIE AT ALAMEDA.

Next Sunday the Marylands play Alameda at Lincoln Park and Blankenship may use Dutch Reuther on the mound against Babe Hollis. Ping Bodie, who could not play with Blankenship yesterday on account of the benefit game across the bay, will be with the club next Sunday. The Oakland Natives go to Crockett next Sunday and Manager Cahalan is well satisfied with his club just as it took the field yesterday so will probably not make any changes.

Entries Close Thursday For Olympic Bouts

Elimination Trials for Amateur Boxers Slated for Wednesday Night.

President Al Goldsmith of the Seattle Athletic Club yesterday telegraphed President Will Humphreys of the Olympic Club that his organization would be represented in the international tournament at the Auditorium November 22 and 23 by a team of four men including one national champion. two far western title-holders and one Pacific Northwest champion.

The northern aggregation will be one of the classiest quartet of boxers in the coming show. Earl Baird is the national 125-pound champion and is also far western title-holder at the same weight. He is now a lieutenant in Uncle Sam's army and has secured furlough for the tourney. Bob Harper won the 115-pound title at the far western matches at Seattle last June and Tom Woodhouse won the middleweight title at the same tourney. The fourth member of the outfit will be Oscar Benson, said by Goldsmith to be one of the cleverest lightweights who has ever performed at the club and is the present Pacific Northwest A. A. U. champion. Pat Scott, the physical director of the club, will come south with the boys and they will arrive next Monday.

Entries for all classes close with the Olympic Club on Thursday. The tourney is open to any registered amateur boxer. On Wednesday night a big series of elimination trials will be staged at the Olympic Club gymnasium by the soldiers from the Presidio. Seventy soldiers have entered and this elimination will result in putting the best of each class into action. As an added attraction Ted Lewis will give a special exhibition and Al Kaufman, former contender for world's heavyweight honors, and "Fat" La Rue will go four rounds for the benefit of the soldier boys.

MORAN REFUSES BOUT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. — Frank Moran won't be in the ring with Jim Coffey for a farewell bout next Wednesday night when the Frawley boxing law expires. Although he was assured such a match would draw a $20,100 house, Moran declined, saying he was out of condition.

DILLON MEETS MISKE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. — Jack Dillon of Indianapolis is in town today to polish off his training for the punchfest with Billy Miske of St Paul tomorrow night. The light-heavyweight title will be at stake when they meet.

Steen-Benham Fight Eleven Innings to Tie

Red Powers Is Fruitvale Hero With Home Run on Pittsburg Lot.

Battling eleven innings without either side scoring a victory is what the Fruitvale parlor of Native Sons and Pittsburg did yesterday afternoon in the second game of the East Bay Cities Mid-winter league to be played at Pittsburg.

When Umpire Lattimer called the game on account of darkness the score stood one to one and everybody felt satisfied with the result, as they knew what a hard game it would be for either pitcher, Bill Steen or Artie Benham, to lose, as they had toiled nobly from the first inning when each team put over its run.

Bill Steen seemed to have a little the better of the pitching argument with Artie Benham. Five hits were secured off the former Seal and seventeen of the Natives were forced to return to the bench as strikeout victims. The control which he had was perfect, not a man obtaining free passage to first base in the entire eleven innings.

RED POWERS STARS.

"Red" Powers, the Fruitvale manager, seemed to be the only one that could do anything worth while to Steen's slants, he gathering two hits. He lost a third hit when he was called out in the eleventh inning for failing to touch first base.

It was Powers who in the first inning was responsible for the run which Fruitvale made. He was the first man to face Steen in the inning and before Steen had a chance to find out his weakness Powers connected for a drive that went for a home run. Harry Harper made a hard try to get the drive but it got away from him and rolled all the way to the right center field fence while Powers completed the circuit.

Pittsburg came right back in their half and tied it up, besides almost putting over a second run. Streib, second man up, singled and completed the trip around the bags when Red Ahmstrong pasted out a long three-bagger. With only one down it looked very scary for the Fruitvale boys, but Artie Benham settled down and managed to pull out of the tight pinch.

WHITTIER CUTS OFF RUN.

From the first inning on it was a great pitchers' battle with both Steen and Benham receiving excellent support from their teammates. A Pittsburg score was cut off in the eighth inning when Ed. Whittier, the Fruitvale centerfielder, made a perfect throw to the plate to cut off a runner who was trying to score from second on a single.

Fruitvale's best opportunity to win the game came in the eleventh inning. "Red" Powers, who was having a wonderful day with the fungo stick, crashed out a long drive to center that enabled him to reach second, and was ruled out by the umpire for failing to touch first base. The Fruitvale players claim that they got the worst of the decision, saying that Powers touched the bag that time if he ever did. Had Powers not been called out Fruitvale would have probably won the game, as the next batter followed with a single. The boys are not making any kicks, however; they returned home well satisfied and give much praise for the treatment accorded them by the Pittsburg club and people.

They also came home with some nice boosts for Shortstop Armstrong of the Pittsburg team, who they predict will be joining faster company before long if he continues to play the game he did yesterday.

The game was the best played at Pittsburg this year and was attended by a big crowd, which further shows that Pittsburg is a live baseball town and is going to be a big help to the East Bay Cities Mid-winter league.

Jack Hendricks Slated to Lead St. Louis Cards

BY H. C. HAMILTON.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

LOUISVILLE, Kentucky, Nov. 12. — Jack Hendricks, manager of the Indianapolis American association club ever since it has been in control of James C. McGill, probably will be next manager of the St Louis Cardinals. This information came to the United Press today from an unimpeachable source. Hendricks has been offered a salary of $7500 a year with a two-year contract and a bonus of 10 per cent of the club's earnings above a certain sum.

The only thing now blocking the deal is the reluctance of McGill to turn over Hendricks. He has asked time to consider the matter and is expected to ask Branch Rickey, president of the Cardinals, for favors for the Indianapolis club if Hendricks is released. No later than yesterday McGill was sitting tight, refusing to let Hendricks leave the Indians. McGill now is paying Hendricks a salary of $2600 a year with a 15 per cent bonus for pennant-winning clubs.

McGill and Hendricks have been associated ever since McGill broke into baseball. Back in the days when Springfield of the Central league was in control of McGill, Hendricks was there, and when McGill bought the Denver club of the Western league Hendricks was made manager. Winning Western league pennants became a habit with Hendricks, and when McGill purchased the Indianapolis club, Hendricks went along.

In three years Hendricks has been in Indianapolis he has won one pennant, this year. At the end of the season he led his team in a post-season series against Toronto, pennant winners in the International league, and won. It is confidently believed here that Hendricks will get the management of the club, for it is not considered McGill will stand in the way of his manager stepping into the big league position, even with the prospect of a new third league job waiting.

Washers Lead Class B Boys By Two Wins

Nelson Is Crystal Laundry Hero in Defeat of Maxwells; Protest Filed.

The Crystal Laundry is today topping the teams in the class B divisions of the winter league as a result of the victory over the Maxwell Hardware, 5 to 2, at Bay View grounds. The Crystals have a percentage of 1000, as have the Allendale and Melrose Merchants, but the Washers have won two games while the others have won but one. The game was called in the eighth inning on account of time limit, another team waiting for the grounds.

Frenchie Laffargue was too much for the hardware boys, holding them to five hits, but his pitching was not much better than that of Rives, who tossed for the Maxwells. Rives allowed seven hits and fanned eleven, but received poor support from his teammates.

Nelson, left fielder for the Washers, also took a big part in the defeat of the Maxwells by smashing out two doubles and scoring three runs. In the first inning when his side scored its first run he led off with a double, Scannel sacrificed and Nelson scored when Allen Corbett crack out a two-bagger.

In the third Laffargue was safe on an error by Dewey. Nelson was safe on another boot by Barry. Scannel fanned, [illegible] catch him stretching it to a double, Dewey threw wild and all three scored. In the fifth Nelson was again a figure in the scoring by getting his second double, and scoring when Corbett was safe on an error by O'Connor.

Maxwells got their only run in the sixth when Woods singled to center, stole second, and scored on Barry's long triple.

Manager Morill of the Maxwells has filed a protest with President Lawlor because the Crystals failed to have nine men in uniform.

Two Class B Games Close In Tie Score

Rain Prevents Finish of Tight Battles in Which No Runs Had Been Made.

Rain was the cause of two games in the class B division having a short ending and each had gone the required five innings to make it a ball game, without a run being made by either.

At Melrose, Vitt's Grays and the Melrose Merchants went along for seven innings without a man getting around to the plate when time was called by the umpire until a heavy shower passed. The rules call for each team to remain for 15 minutes after the umpire stops the game and if the rain fails to let up by that time the game should be called off altogether.

After 5 minutes the rain had stopped and the umpire called for play to be resumed, but there were only three of the Melrose players ready to take the field as the rest of the team had changed their clothes. In order that the game might be played out Manager Vitt of the Grays was willing to let the players work in their street clothes, but they refused and now Vitt has filed a protest with President Jerry Lawlor.

In those seven innings, Charley Jensen and Johnny Gillispie staged a great pitcher's battle with the latter having the better of it by allowing the Merchants only two hits and fanning 12, while Jensen allowed 4 hits and fanned 8.

FONSECA IN GREAT FORM.

The other scoreless tie game saw the Santa Fe Improvers and the Allendale Merchants in a tight battle. The Improvers gave Fonseca great support and for 5 innings he did not allow a hit. McCarthy, pitching for Allendale, was touched for 3 hits and with 3 errors behind him, he was lucky to get away without allowing a score. The game was called in the first half of the 6th just when it looked as though the Improvers had found McCarthy. Gilstrap got a hit and with two men on the outlook was dark for the Merchants when the rain came.

Viani made two of the Improvers' 3 hits, Plummer connecting for the 3d. Fonseca fanned 8 batters in the 5 innings and was going great when the game was stopped.

PACIFIC FOREIGN TRADE.

Official reports from Mr. Robert Frazer Jr., United States consul at Kobe, disclose the fact that that city has assumed the lead in the foreign trade of Pacific Ocean ports. It is closely pressed for first place only by Yokohama, another Japanese port. In 1916 the total foreign commerce of Kobe increased 36 per cent, as compared with the year immediately preceding the war, or from $258,539,000 to $352,601,000. The latter figure constituted a record when it was made, but it promises to be surpassed by about 35 per cent in 1917.

For purposes of comparison it is necessary to revert to the last year for which statistics from all the leading Pacific ports are available. By so doing we get the following:

Kobe, Japan, 1916	$352,601,000
Yokohama, Japan, 1916	353,645,000
Shanghai, China, 1916	348,689,000
Singapore, Straits Settlements, 1915 (inclusive of intercolonial trade)	273,211,000
Sydney, Australia, 1915	257,097,000
State of Washington customs district, 1917	376,000,000
Manila, 1916	87,248,000
Valparaiso, Chile, 1915	38,234,450
Canton, China, 1916	67,103,963
Tientsin, China, 1916	52,534,000
Callao, Peru, 1915	29,438,000

But Consul Frazer reports that the foreign trade of Kobe for the first seven months of 1917 was $270,479,000, while that of Yokohama for the same period was $237,922,000. Pro rated for the whole year, this means that the foreign trade of Kobe for 1917 will be $463,678,000, against $407,866,000 for Yokohama, the next busiest Pacific port. Thus the foreign trade of these two Japanese ports alone for the current calendar year will be $871,000,000, as against a total of $562,000,000 for the two customs districts of San Francisco and Washington, or a lead of $309,000,000.

Notwithstanding the fact that the United States is both the chief customer and the principal seller in the Kobe and Yokohama districts, these figures have little significance except to accentuate the fact that Japan has a great many more customers and buyers in the world markets than this country. But the increases all the Pacific ports have made in their foreign trade is more interesting.

Going back five years, to the calendar year of 1912, a wholly peaceful and normal period, the trade of the principal of these ports then was: Kobe, $224,839,791; Yokohama, $235,227,552; Shanghai, $183,688,559; Singapore, $269,500,345; Sydney, $304,294,460; State of Washington customs district, $114,021,792; San Francisco, $128,523,066. Thus the foreign trade of Yokohama and Kobe nearly doubled; Shanghai probably has doubled by this time; Puget Sound has increased 245 per cent, and San Francisco 125 per cent.

The great increases in the foreign trade of the Pacific ports have not been directly due to the demands of belligerents. They have been the secondary results of the war. Japan, the leader, has picked up the markets deserted by Europe—in South America, Australia, South Africa, India, China and the Philippines. American exports to the Orient have largely been due to the cutting off of the supply from Europe. In the meantime the east coast of the Western Hemisphere has devoted its energies to supplying Europe, taking in return such few things as Europe had to sell.

Therefore the trade of the Pacific ports rests upon a more substantial basis than the increase in the Atlantic; new currents of trade have been set in motion and new facilities for handling commerce established. These things are a promise of considerable permanency to the present volume of trade and probably of steady increases.

The ports which will hold their advantages are those that have prepared for permanent business. Docks, warehouses, harbor facilities, shipping lines, rail terminals and business connections will be important factors. In San Francisco we have seen the dockage facilities taxed to their maximum capacity and shipping companies seeking accommodations on the east side of the bay or going to Puget Sound.

If there ever was a time for intelligent, reasonably far-seeing and honest conservation of harbor and wharfage facilities it is now. Yet we find Oakland officials indifferent to the opportunities at hand, and stupidly trying to excuse and justify their intentions to barter away the western waterfront to private industrial interests and to wholly destroy its usefulness as an embarcadero.

MAKING IT SELECTIVE.

The reorganization of the system for administering the selective draft law, announced Saturday by the President and the Provost-General of the Army, is designed to make the draft really selective. It will summon first those men who can best serve their country in the ranks of the army; it will exempt those having others dependent upon them for support and those who may be engaged in occupations necessary to the more efficient conduct of the war.

This was the purpose of the draft law and it was the object sought by the government in applying the law in creating the national armies. But there has been a lot of lost time and motion, because the examining boards have had to go through the entire list of registrants whose numbers had been drawn to discover who should be exempted and who should be called.

Under the new system the registrants will be classified in the order of their liability to service prior to examination. Each registrant will have to give a personal history of himself. When this is completed the government will know what he is fitted for and whether any reason exists for not serving with the colors. If it is decided that he shall be tested for the latter kind of service, it will only be necessary to give the registrant a physical examination. The government will under the new plan ascertain just what each of the 9,000,000 men of military age are doing and may be assigned to do.

This will be an improvement upon the original plan, although the first call under the selective draft law has not been a failure. It has been a decided success so far as raising a unit of the national army is concerned, and it has proved a thoroughly democratic and just manner of calling citizens to national duty. But the new plan will be simpler and more useful to the government. It will serve to mobilize all the men of military age for any kind of service desired of them—from cutting timber for airplanes to carrying a rifle.

WITH ONE EYE CLOSED.

The lafollettes of the country have labored painfully to record their horror at the seizure of Mr. Herbert Bigelow in Cincinnati by masked men, well-meaning, but erring, gentleman a severe beating.

That the acts committed against Mr. Bigelow constitute an atrocious crime, no thinking person will deny. As far as it went it was a lynching. It is morally and legally indefensible. Every man who joined in the chastising of Mr. Bigelow probably is a greater menace to society than the victim of their wrath, and furthermore, they have done their country no good. The federal statutes provide a sentence of ten years in prison for the crime and all persons convicted of a part in it should be heavily punished.

But there was one factor connected with the outrage which the lafollettes have neglected to mention, and of which the law always takes cognizance. That is provocation. Mr. Bigelow was himself the provocation and therefore he must shoulder a share of the responsibility for his punishment. His provocation was both mental and moral; he refused to take cognizance of his environment and to recognize that there are limits of offense to the sentiments of his fellow-men beyond which it is unsafe to venture, and that in every community there are some "wild and crude" souls that make this border line difficult to discern.

It is also noteworthy that among the shocked defenders of Mr. Bigelow there is not one who is known to have condemned or complained against the murder of women and children, the rape of Belgian and French girls, the mutilation and slaughter of prisoners and other crimes committed, not as acts of "wild justice," but by Prussian officers and soldiers, in full control of their emotions, proceeding under orders of the German general staff and with the knowledge and approval of their emperor. Nor have they voiced any indignation at the bomb outrages and incendiary fires and assaults upon the lives of American citizens in their own homes by German agents.

Aagie Acme of Woodland should not be referred to as doing her bit. She has produced 1331 pounds of butter within the last 365 days, which is a world's record. Aagie Acme is a Holstein dairy cow who has done a tremendous lot for California in winning another first place in the business of producing an important foodstuff and she has contributed to the butter supply of the country in a measure that should be an example to all breeders and keepers of cows.

The Eureka draft board has resigned because it does not like its work. The members should be retained for a while, until they realize that sometimes it is necessary to do unpleasant things and that there is virtue in doing things that hurt. Then perhaps they may think better of their job and get a clearer vision of duty.

To remind his subjects of the "on with the hate" slogan, the Kaiser has had his airmen bombard a Red Cross hospital behind the French lines and kill seven nurses and wounded soldiers.

At Eureka they have established a costless day. In the graduating classes no girl is to wear a dress that costs more than three-fifty, at least, that is the edict of parents. Quite a number of parents had ideas squinting this way before the war. But they lacked the occasion to justify enforcement.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

With a total of 1225 carloads of green fruit shipped to Eastern markets, Vacaville closed the season of 1917 on Wednesday, November 7, making this the banner year in the history of the local fruit business. Last year the shipments totaled 1216 carloads, which far exceeded any previous season. The nearest approach to it was in 1903, when 1143 was the year's total. In 1915, 877 carloads were shipped, 744 in 1914, and 747 in 1913.—Vacaville Reporter.

HELPFULNESS

In one of the largest glass works in the United States two men out of every three have enlisted in the military service. In every department one man is now doing the work of three. They are doing this, however, willingly, in order that the regular wages of the men who have gone may still be paid week by week to their families. This is only an instance of what is happening all over the country. We hear of lawyers who are doing their bit by taking over their friends' practices in order that they may be free to enlist without anxiety for the welfare of their clients or the support of their families. Physicians have done the same. The clergyman who is unable to go to the front is giving his service in the neighboring parish whose rector has already set out for France. The bishops in the diocese bordering Erie are taking Bishop Israel's visitations. A new spirit of friendliness and helpfulness has been set free, the sweet give-and-take of brotherhood which has been imprisoned heretofore by a self-conscious independence. It is the spirit which we have wondered at in the slums, the spirit that takes the sting out of poverty; the lack of which makes the avenue so often a lonely place. In the face of common suffering we recognize our common humanity.—Churchman.

MISTAKES

Mistakes are things anybody can make successfully.

I have known people who seemed to fail at every other kind of manufacturing who could make as splendid specimens of mistakes as one could wish to see.

"Yes, and do it easy!

I have made mistakes.

Yep, I have.

I used to think I made none.

Now I list that think as one of the biggest mistakes I ever made or knew about.

These days I find myself wondering if I am not the fellow who invented them.

Sometimes a fellow takes a miss that nobody else would take, and afterwards finds out it was a miss-take.

Anybody under twenty never admits that he has made a mistake.

And he is usually honest about it.

If anything goes wrong, blame it onto somebody else.

After twenty-five he begins to think of a few he made when he was eleven.

By the time he is forty-five he will forget the mistakes he made in early youth because, in looking back over the trail, the little ones of childhood are completely hid by the whoppers he has made since he was thirty-five.

I don't know why people have to make mistakes.

But they are built that way.

I believe I never made the same mistake twice.

This encourages me.

For as I look back over a mistake-dotted career I believe I have reached the point at which I cannot make any mistakes without repeating.

But that may be a mistake.—Strickland Gillilan in Farm Life.

FORMING OF NEW PARTIES.

American political third parties have been factors of importance in the life of the nation chiefly by indirection, since they have influenced the old established parties and the governments chosen by the latter only from the periphery of affairs. Despite the failure of new parties to establish themselves permanently, with the conspicuous exception of the Republican party, the suggestion is offered by a group of persons representing various elements in conference in Chicago that one more attempt be made. The idea is to gather together the forces behind the farmers' non-partisan movement, the remnant of the Progressive party, the Prohibitionists and the backers of universal suffrage, public ownership of railroads and other radical policies.

On the basis of past experience it is easy to predict that the new party, if actually launched, will have only a short existence. Coming so soon after the breaking up of the most formidable third-party movement in years—the Progressive party, once led by Theodore Roosevelt, now returned to the Republican fold—many will think that only moderate success at best can be won by the proposed organization. However, in these extraordinary times predictions based on past experience easily may be misleading. The world in many respects is moving in ways inconsistent with past tendencies. Unexpected developments may suddenly furnish the basis for new activities and new alignments.

The ordinary citizen in existing circumstances should endeavor to keep his poise, joining new movements that appeal to his intelligence after careful consideration, but avoiding those in which froth and hysteria are the predominating characteristics.—Chicago News.

TO BECOME HISTORICAL.

Scarcely heard of until now, the Tagliamento river, east of Venice, may figure in war history with the Meuse and Marne, the Bug and Dvina. Back of Udine, it is the first good defensive line. The stream is about as large as the Housatonic. Coming from much greater heights, it brings down vast detritus which in its marshy middle course it strews over wide, shifting channels. In the lower plain its tidal waters are wide and deep. Small as it is compared with the Po and the Adige, it is at least as formidable an obstacle to a.. army as the Aisne, which sheltered the German armies retreating from the Marne for two years of dogged trench warfare.—New York World.

THE ANCHOR OF THE ALLIES.

It is sometimes asked, "What is the British navy doing?" An answer to the question is given in Lloyd George's statement in the House of Commons of its work during the three years of the war. It has enabled 13,000,000 men to cross and recross the seas, with the loss of only 3500. It has also safeguarded the transportation of 25,000,000 tons of explosives and 51,000,000 tons of coal. That is surely a wonderful feat of naval efficiency. And while protecting the shipping of the allies and making possible their prosecution of the war it has kept the seas closed to enemy navies and rendered their battleships useless and impotent. The British premier does not overstate the case in saying that the British navy is "the anchor of the allied cause."—New York World.

WILLS HANDS RESIGNATION TO BOARD

After six years' service at the County Infirmary, during which he has several times been the center of heated political fights in the Board of Supervisors, and during which he has made many extensive improvements in the institution, and directed the building of the new county Tubercular Hospital, Dr. C. A. Wills resigned today. The resignation takes effect this evening. Dr. Wills has been commissioned a captain of the Medical Corps of the United States Army. Mrs. W. S. Prowse, superintendent of nurses during his regime, and also the center of several political attacks, has also resigned. She is to serve under him in his medical unit.

Wills' resignation follows the reorganization of the infirmary administration under the new counties institution committee. His place will be temporarily assumed by Dr. R. J. Cary, head of the Tubercular Hospital, who will direct both institutions without added compensation until another superintendent is appointed.

THANKS BOARD.

In his resignation, Dr. Wills thanked the board for past co-operation and praised the county body, calling attention to the pleasant relations under which they had worked.

"It is fitting at this time," he wrote, "That I express to your honorable board my gratitude for the honor bestowed on me for the past six years and it is with a deep feeling of appreciation that I recall the years spent in your service. It is with regret that I terminate these pleasant associations, and I shall always carry with me many pleasant recollections of the period spent in the infirmary."

"Dr. Wills has spent six years of his life as superintendent of the infirmary," declared Supervisor John F. Mullins, "and during that time he has made many improvements in the institution both for the aged and infirm and in the hospital. He has worked incessantly for the patients. Many a man and woman will ever feel kindly and indebted to him for his able assistance, and I feel that Alameda county has lost a good servant."

Chairman D. J. Murphy also paid tribute to Dr. Wills, and to his work in the infirmary.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Bids were received by the board for the tuburcular hospital annex. The lowest bid was offered by W. J. Thornally, who offered to perform the work for $52,985. He was awarded the contract. The other bids follow: Schnebely & [illegible] $58,957; C. W. Heyer Jr., $54,800. The architect's estimate set $45,000 as the lowest figure at which the structure could possibly be erected.

URGE "BEEFLESS DAY."

Plans for the proposed ordinance to enforce a "Beefless Tuesday" in restaurants were brought before the board. The letter from Carl Sword, manager of the Hotel Oakland, urging the plan, was laid before the board with the recommendation that the supervisors pass a resolution making this a request rather than a law.

I believe that a county ordinance would not be effective, still Mr. Sword's plan is one worthy of every consideration," said Supervisor John F. Mullins. "I believe we should call on the people to do their patriotic duty."

A resolution will be drafted urging the Beefless Tuesday and Wheatless Wednesday on the people. The County Council of Defense will offer a similar resolution.

CHANGE OF CONTRACTS.

Acceptance of changes in the contracts for the nurses' cottage at the Infirmary was filed by Architect Charles P. Weeks. This waiver was filed at the request of the institutions commission, to prevent any legal complication through changes in construction. The matter was declared one of legal form only.

Boyce & Frederickson, Alvarado, applied for a liquor license. Hearing will be set.

GETS PART PAYMENT.

M. E. Fernandez was voted $3115.42 on his work on the Infirmary sewers, partly completed.

License was granted by the Western Pacific to use its private roadway for ingress to the new county garage. The county will not be charged for the privilege.

M. J. Campbell was named to be a guard on the Para street bridge at $100 per month.

SEEK A NEW GERM

"Bacillus bottulinus" is a new germ that is being sought by the city health department, according to Dr. Kirby Smith. It is to be found mostly in canned fruit and is dangerous in some cases. In keeping with the advice of Herbert Hoover, housewives have been diligent in putting up fruits this season. In some instances, Dr. Smith says, sufficient heat has not been applied during the preserving process with the result that the germs develop in the jars later on.

To Correct Defects in Children

Dr. Buckel Will Finance Plan

Stanford University Is in Charge

That out of the 400,000 school children of California more than 25,000 are three or more grades retarded, and that fully 10 per cent of the $12,000,000 annually spent for tuition in California's public schools is spent in repeated instruction, is the situation that, by its present expansion plans, the Buckel Foundation, formed in Stanford University by the will of the late Dr. C. Annette Buckel of Oakland, will seek to repair.

These figures, made public today as the result of exhaustive researches of Dr. Lewis M. Therman head of the foundation, are to be carefully investigated, that school authorities may ascertain the exact sum lost in every school through the present system of handling defective children. In the meantime the foundation is planning extension that will include restoration laboratories, where cures for many mental misadjustments of children's minds will be undertaken.

The Buckel Foundation, organized when Dr. Buckel left an estate of $10,000 with the request that it be used to better defective children, which Miss Charlotte Playter of Oakland added to, is engaged in five lines for research among defective school children. Tests, showing the proportion of these in every school, have been completed. Investigation into the mentality of delinquent children is now being conducted.

Dr. Thurman declares that the 25,000 school children in California who are misgraded under the present system are either mentally slow, defective or delinquent. The foundation is devising special courses and tests for each classification.

It is planned to enlist the Stanford Department of Medicine in the work of the foundation, establish assistantships and fellowships in the work, and a hospital fund, research professorship, new laboratories, reconstruction departments, and to operate in coordination with the California school system.

'TAKE A BLANKET' TO CAMP LEWIS

Dr. George T. Ehrlich, a dentist, who was drafted and went to Camp Lewis a week ago Sunday, returned to his home in Oakland today, having been exempted on account of near-sightedness. His advice to the Liberty Boys leaving for American Lake was to take an extra blanket along.

"Food fine, treatment excellent, sanitary conditions good," was his survey of the situation at Camp Lewis. "But the climate is hard on the California boys. It's pretty raw, and most of us had coughs and cold as a result.

It's better since they got stoves in most of the tents.

"But I was fortunate in having an extra blanket along. They give you two blankets and a comfort. You put one blanket under, and one over and the comfort on top. The extra blanket felt mighty good.

"The boys with whom I left Oakland just a little over a week ago have already left Camp Lewis for New York. They left Thursday, and will go to Fort Mills Long Island.

"It is the impression at the camp among the boys that they are going almost right away to France, these that are being taken East. Methods of warfare are changing so fast that they seem to be planning to give us only the rudiments here. The intensive training, the boys believe, will come across the water. They are taking out about 1000 of them a day to Fort Mills.

"One change that is recent is in the handling of those rejected. It used to be that you remained in camp about two weeks after you had been rejected waiting word from Washington. Now you wait only two days.

"On the trip and in camp you are treated well. The allowance for meals on the trip is 60 cents a meal. The Red Cross women take care of the boys, and give them a meal that is worth a lot more than 60 cents.

"We were drilled and exercised well at the Camp, but they don't drive you too hard. You have plenty of time to yourself.

"But my advice to a boy who is likely to be drafted is to enlist first. That gives a choice of service which you don't get once you are drafted."

RAILROAD STARTS DRIVE FOR CARS

Local railroad officials today redoubled efforts to keep all freight cars moving. With the notification to shippers that the usual 48 hours allowed to unload cars had been suspended, the railroads started a "drive" for cars, and a close check is being kept on every car, what it contains and how quickly it can be unloaded. "Load cars full; empty them quickly." This is the railroad man's appeal to Oakland shippers.

That the railroads of the United States will face a freight car crisis during the coming winter is the declaration of the Railroad War Board, and every effort is being made to get as much as possible of the nation's supplies shipped before the situation becomes acute. Despite the extraordinary labors of the railroads, the car shortage is growing.

MANY CARS SHORT.

The roads were 148,000 cars short in April last. They were 80,000 cars short September 1. Now they are 70,000 cars short.

Traffic is increasing at the rate of 15 per cent a month.

Crops are unusually heavy and must be moved. Factories all over the eastern half of the country are clamoring for coal, and nothing but faster loading and unloading, and faster wok on the tracks will save the situation. The volume of government freight, which must be moved, is increasing even more rapidly than the regular commercial traffic.

IN FULL USE.

The railroads are already getting 50 per cent more service out of the locomotives and cars now in service than was thought possible when the war began.

The peak of the year's movement of freight always comes in the latter part of November and the first part of December. The War Board today stated that if it can hold things level until spring, the country can breathe easier, because by that time immense quantities of equipment now under construction will have become available.

OPTION "DYING"

The city's option on the Trestle Glen acreage, taken a year ago by the former city administration with a view of acquiring the property for park purposes, is in its dying gasps. It will expire January 1 and be allowed to lapse, no provision having been made in the budget this year for continuing the purchase payments.

A. M. Fowler, retained by the city as ranger on the property, has been withdrawn from service as there are no more funds available out of the original $4500 appropriation under the option to retain him. It was agreed that the city should expend that sum on the property during the period of the option. Part of it was charged off against the band concerts given during the first of the season, while the remainder went for watchman hire and improvements.

Don't Experiment With Glasses

Wear "Caltex Onepiece" Bifocals and know you have the best—there is something about them which other bifocals do not possess. Those who wear them would never think of taking a step backward to the old style—those who do not wear them should do so and then they are absolutely sure they have the best that optical skill can produce. "Caltex" are recognized everywhere as the only perfect bifocal lenses made for far and near seeing.

THREE DEAD WHEN AUTO IS WRECKED

Tobias Abi, an airplane machinist and employee of the Hall-Scott motor factory of Berkeley; Joseph J. Laughlin, Millbrae saloonman, and William H. Casey, a bartender, are dead; Edward Lynch of Antioch, Joseph Kapick and Albion Soderberg, driver of the machine, seriously injured, and Soderberg, now under medical treatment, faces arrest on a charge of manslaughter, as the result of an accident on the Mission Road, outside of San Francisco, early today. The automobile, which had been rented by the Berkeley man and the party for a spin toward San Jose, skidded, just outside the county line and crashed into a pole, hurling the victims to the pavement. The machine was demolished.

Soderberg, the chauffeur, will, on his recovery, be asked to tell his version of the accident.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Three Berkeley people were seriously injured in an automobile accident near Milpitas last night, when E. Verdier suffered two broken ribs, Mrs. G. Gaillard was badly cut and bruised and an 8-year-old baby badly mangled. The automobile was driven by Harry Fugati of Berkeley, and crashed into a machine driven by H. M. Bunne or San Jose.

An unidentified man, apparently a laborer, is dead in San Francisco as the result of being run down by a jitney bus driven by Jesse Goldenson, 826 Florida street, at Haight and Fillmore streets. Goldenson is being held on a charge of manslaughter.

MODESTO, Nov. 12. — Eugene O'Connor of Modesto is dead and Percy O'Connor, Modesto, and Mildred Impeatrice, Fresno, seriously injured as the result of an accident yesterday when the O'Connor car struck a machine owned by L. M. Westhorpe, standing in front of the latter's home. The occupants of the machine were thrown out.

IS NEAR DEATH.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 12. — Frank Mages of this city is in the hospital near death with a fractured skull and E. R. Strickland, a local laundryman, is disfigured for life, as the result of two automobile accidents here yesterday. Mages, while riding a motorcycle, collided with a car driven by William [illegible] head-on into a car driven by Cecil Carlisle of San Martin.

SAN RAFAEL, Nov. 12.—John Leonardi, a gardener living at Kentfield, was run over and fatally injured by a truck driven by Joseph Gray of Santa Rosa. Leonardi was rushed to the county hospital at San Rafael, where he died on the operating table.

STOCKTON, Nov. 2.—Ed. Carlson of Turlock was killed on a county highway near Manteca when another motorcycle collided with the one he was riding. Carlson was on his way to Stockton, with James Bond riding in his side car, when the accident happened. Carlson's skull was fractured and he died soon after he had been taken to the county hospital.

$5 SCHOOL GOWN

Promotion exercises of the various schools of Oakland will be held in the municipal auditorium on December 7, according to announcement of Superintendent Fred M. Hunter today.

Girl graduates will have to limit the cost of their dresses to $5, the committee has decided, but the gowns need not be of the same design.

Superintendent Hunter also announces that under the Smith-Hughes act recently passed by Congress, a more comprehensive course of study in agricultural subjects will be introduced in the schools. The government will contribute from $600 to $1000 a year toward the added expense.

WAR DRIVE LUNCH GETS BIG RESULTS

With a meeting of 300 volunteer workers at 9 o'clock this morning, a big luncheon at the Hotel Oakland at noon, the receipt of a check for $1400 from the Retail Drygoods Association, the drive for Oakland's share of the $35,000,000 asked of the nation for the Young Men's Christian Association's war work among the men of America's army and navy and the armies of her allies, was successfully launched today.

Patriotic men and women, eager boys and girls of Oakland are giving of their time and energy to meet the emergency of the hour, to back the Liberty Bonds which supplied the sinews of war with dollars to hold steady the morale of the American army, to keep the home fires burning in the hearts of the soldiers, to provide wholesome play, wholesome amusement for the fighting men during their hours of loneliness and homesickness.

The women of Oakland, headed by Mrs. W. E. Sharon, Mrs. Charles Goodall and Mrs. Henry S. Manheim, will canvass the residential district. They will make a "bell-ringing campaign."

David E. Perkins is campaign manager. He has divided the city into districts.

The tent in the City Hall plaza has been taken over by the women. Subscriptions to the war work fund will be received there. All local banks will accept subscriptions and the committee will accept Liberty Bonds as cash.

HOTEL OAKLAND LUNCH.

Francis is a dynamic speaker. He fired hot shot at the Kaiser when he said: "We are after the Kaiser and we'll fight him until hell freezes over and then go after him on skates."

"There is one thing Germany does not know yet, but she will know it before she gets through with it," said Francis. "The day she invaded Belgium it was not France or England she went up against; she went up against a righteous God. And she aroused the sleeping lion of the world. The consciousness of this nation has been quickened. You will see this nation close up like a clenched fist. If it costs seventy billions of money and five millions of men we will see it through. And woe to us before the judgment of God if we do not. It is not a matter of option at all."

And then he launched into the work of the Young Men's Christian Association.

A MORAL BRACER.

"The Y. M. C. A. in the army is to be to the moral force of America what the front line of the trench is to the whole army. The Y. M. C. A. is there to counteract the brutalizing effects of the war, by putting the moral bacer inside of the men to enable them to remain men and not become brutes. No one unless visiting the camps can have any idea what the brutalizing effect of vast preparation for war is.

"When you send a million young men and ask them to remain men and not become brutes, you are asking about the most difficult thing that God ever asked a man in this world. How much are we willing to do to help them remain men?

"This 35 million dollars is going to be divided thus: 11 millions in this country, 12 millions for the American Army abroad; 13 millions to be divided between the Russian, French, Italian, Mesopotamia, Jap and as far away as India.

"What are we willing to do for these men? Don't measure your giving this week by anything you have done. You never were up against anything like this before. I met a young fellow who earns $4000 a year, he has a wife and two children. They are going to live on $1800 and he is putting $2200 in the welfare of the boys. If you are thinking of $5 think of $50, if you are thinking of $100, think of $500 or a thousand dollars. I have never seen such a response to an appeal in all my life as in a little town in the central part of the state. Their quota was $400, and they gave $10,000. I spoke at Taft. A fellow who owned the pool hall turned the cash register over for the day. We have found the same thing everywhere. I am perfectly amazed. Men who have never been at the Y. M. C. A. before are wanting to know what is being done.

AD CLUB'S LUNCHEON.

A pretty girl will be the principal speaker at the Ad Club's luncheon tomorrow. She will be Miss Ruth Edna Beckwith of Los Angeles, the girl who stumped the southland for Governor Stephens, who fought for prohibition and who admits a mission in life to right certain wrongs of matrimony, divorce and taxation. However, tomorrow Miss Beckwith will talk on "Playing the Game" as it relates to the soldier boys and the service of the Red Triangle of the Y. M. C. A.

Miss Beckwith has enrolled in the service of Uncle Sam to the extent that she is urging whole-hearted, generous investment in the war work funds of the Y. M. [illegible] at the front may get that touch of home that only the Y. M. C. A. brings to them during their hours of loneliness and homesickness.

Miss Beckwith is president of the Woman's Protective Association of Los Angeles and is one of the few women admitted to the practice of law in the state. She combines beauty of face and figure, charm of manner, with a keen intellect.

MISS RUTH EDNA BECKWITH, orator, lawyer and tax expert, who is to speak in the interest of the Y. M. C. A. "drive."

29 CITIES TO FIGHT RAISE IN LIGHT COST

Concerted action by the cities, other than San Francisco, that are served with light by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, will be taken in the coming gas rate hearing before the railroad commission, as the result of plans made at a meeting yesterday by representatives of twenty-nine of the forty cities included in the application of the company for an increased rate. A committee appointed to arrange a plan for co-operation in securing engineering experts and special counsel, decided to employ Attorney B. D. Marx Greene of Berkeley to act as general counsel for all the cities and to allow him to employ his own engineering assistance.

Representatives were present at yesterday's meeting from Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, San Bruno, Redwood City, San Leandro, Petaluma, Ross, Hillsboro, San Anselmo, Santa Rosa, San Mateo, Richmond, Sebastopol, Burlingame, South San Francisco, Fresno, Daly City, Oroville, Colusa, Woodland, Marysville, Los Gatos, Chico, Albany, Vallejo, San Jose, San Rafael and Napa.

The following committee was appointed to arrange a plan for co-operation in securing engineering exeprts and special counsel: Wallace Rutherford, chairman; A. F. St. Sure, Alameda; D. J. Hall, Richmond; Thomas H. Reed, San Jose; W. J. Locke, secretary of the league.

The railroad commission proposes to hold seventeen different hearings in the matter, one in each locality affected by the application, for the increase of rates. It will be Attorney Greene's duty as general counsel to advise with local officials in each city, prepare each individual case and then at the general hearings in San Francisco co-ordinate all the local issues.

Greene proposes where conditions justify to file aplications on behalf of the individual cities to lower the rate for electric lighting.

PLAN SERVICE FOR ISLAND'S QUEEN

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 12.—Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii, whose death has been expected for several days, passed away yesterday morning.

The queen has been in bad health for many months. A week ago she began to fail rapidly and last Thursday physicians announced that the end was near.

Preparations have been made for the body to lie in state, with a territorial guard of honor.

Announcement of the queen's death was made at 8:30 o'clock this morning by Curtis P. Laukea, secretary of the territory. In his official statement he said that the end came peacefully. The queen had recovered consciousness at intervals during the night, but toward morning lapsed into a comatose state from which she never recovered.

BELLS TOLL DEATH.

Queen Liliuokalani's death was announced to the people by the tolling of bells and the half-masting of flags. Her old subjects among the natives, including chiefs of the old regime, immediately gathered together to mourn.

At 10 o'clock Senator Ashurst of Arizona, as representative of the Congressional party now visiting the Hawaiian islands, arrived and offered his condolences to Prince and Princess Kalanaiole, Colonel and Mrs. C. P. Laukea and other relatives and close friends who had stood watch at the bedside of the dying queen.

The funeral is to take place next Sunday. Meanwhile, the body will lie in state in the Kawaiahao Church until next Saturday, when it will be removed to the throne room of the palace, where the funeral services will be held. As the last funeral of a native monarch in Hawaii, all the pomp of the old days will be revived and ancient customs observed.

U. S. RECEPTION OFF.

All entertainments prepared for the visiting Congressional delegation have been abandoned. The party, with the exception of Senator Ashurst, sailed from Honolulu on Saturday for Hilo, Island of Hawaii, to visit the burning crater of Kilauea.

In recent weeks Queen Liliuokalani had shown striking patriotism for the United States. She subscribed liberally for the Red Cross fund and the Liberty loan. When news first came that a state of war had been declared she hoisted the Stars and Stripes over her residence in Washington place, advising her former subjects to support the government of the United States to the fullest.

With the death of Queen Liliuokalani has passed the last vestige of royalty in the Hawaiian Islands. The eighth and last monarch to hold swa yover the entire insular group, she reigned for only two years and that brief flicker of sovereignty was extinguished more than twenty years ago in a revolution which led to the annexation of the islands to the United States. But notwithstanding her effacement from public affairs, Queen Liliuokalani never abandoned her regal pose nor lost the affection of her former subjects, and continued to her death a most interesting personality.

There was, however, no immediate hope for annexation, so on July 4, 1894, the Republic of Hawaii was proclaimed, with Sanford B. Dole as President.

On January 16, 1895, just two years after being deposed, Liliuokalani was arrested on the charge of being a participant in a plot to overturn the existing government and resume her sovereignty. Eight days later she formally renounced all claim to the throne. After nine months' confinement in her former palace, she and forty-eight others were pardoned, and when, on August 12, 1898, Hawaii became a territory of the United States, she declared her fealty to the country that had adopted her.

The later years of her life, Liliuokalani remained quietly at home. She had ceased to reign as a sovereign monarch, but she still reigned as queen in the hearts of her people, the native Hawaiians, who venerated her and paid her court as though she still sat upon the throne. She was a composer of hundreds of Hawaiian songs, some of which became popular in the United States.

METAL COFFINS, LONG IN STOCK, SOLD FOR JUNK

GRASS VALLEY, Nov. 12.—Metal coffins, some of them in stock for fifty years, and a large amount of miscellaneous burial equipment were sold here by a local undertaking firm to a junk dealer and unloaded at his shop.

Due to the high price of metals, the material is very valuable now. A zink-lined iron vault was included in the lot. It had been so long in the storeroom that no one remembers for whom it was ordered and why it was never used.

AWAITING VILLA

PRESIDIO, Texas, Nov. 12.—With the Ojinaga garrison firmly entrenched on three sides of the Mexican town opposite here and 850 reinforcements from the federal garrisons at Juarez and Chihuahua City approaching, Mexican federal officers at Ojinaga are awaiting the next move of General Francisco Villa and his brother Hipolito, who, with 400 men, are stationed at the Maljome ranch, 55 miles southeast of Ojinaga.

That Villa has abandoned for the time being his threatened attack on Ojinaga is the opinion advanced by Colonel Rosario F. Castro, commander of the Ojinaga garrison, who said the real purpose of the Villa movement in this district was to mask a strategic movement which would be undertaken at some point on or near the border.

Colonel Flores, with 250 men from the Juarez garrison, has advanced to a point opposite Ruidosa, Texas, 40 miles up the Rio Grande, and General Cordova Espinosa and General Cardona, with 600 men from Chihuahua City are within 30 miles of the Maljoma ranch, it was learned.

Precautions are being taken on the American side of the river and cavalry patrols are guarding every ford along the Rio Grande in the vicinity of Ojinaga.

SEEK SUSPECTS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. — Benny Lusy is being sought by the police here today in connection with the murder of John Andrew Becker of St. Louis, a jackie of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, who was beaten to death in a restroom on the second floor of the Sharples building.

The police are also seeking a woman believed to have been an accomplice in the crime. Officials of the naval station are co-operating with the police.

CRIPPLE HIKING

With more than one-half of his long journey afoot finish, Herbert L. McCashin, a crippled acrobat, has arrived here from Portland on his way to Los Angeles, which place he must reach by April 2. A wager of $1000 is the prize. With a companion, Raymond D. Harrison, McCashin left Portland September 1. Harrison, who is also a cripple, dropped out of the race at Chico and his companion proceeded alone.

DOCK AND DECK

The motor schooner Oregon is loading coal on Puget Sound for this port, and will be brought here by Captain O. A. Johansen. This is the first voyage of the Oregon, having just completed in Oregon and run to the Sound for her cargo. After unloading her coal here she is to return with a full cargo of general merchandise.

The barge Charles Nelson arrived at the Sunset Lumber Company's wharf today from Mukilteo, Wash., in tow of the steam schooner Saginaw. She brought 780,000 feet of lumber. The Saginaw left for San Pedro. After unloading in the south she will return here to take the Nelson back for another cargo.

The tug Henry J. Biddle, with the barge Acapulco in tow from Seattle for Oakland with 3575 tons of coal for the Western Fuel Company, was compelled to put into Neah Bay on account of bad weather. According to wireless both craft are anchored there and will remain until the wind moderates.

Captains H. A. Ruckkeene and James French, representatives of Lloyd's, arrived in Oakland today where they will inspect all shipbuilding plants here. The other bay city ship plants will also be visited by the inspectors. They have just returned from Washington and Oregon, where they visited all shipyards there.

GROUNDED STEAMER IS AGAIN FLOATED.

The steamer Prince John ran ashore in Alliford Bay, Queen Charlotte Islands, yesterday afternoon, according to wireless message received from Captain Harries, her master, who stated that the passengers had been removed from the vessel. A heavy storm is on. The craft was later floated. She was on her way from Prince Rupert to Vancouver.

The whaling season at British Columbia is over for this season, and has produced 15,100 barrels of oil, 1200 tons of whale fertilizer, 550 tons of whale meat and 35 tons of whale bone. This is the largest season's work since this enterprise was begun.

SCHOONER OVERDUE AT DUTCH HARBOR.

Thirty-eight days ago the power schooner Joseph Pulitzer sailed from Portland with a cargo of supplies for Dutch Harbor, Alaska, and since that time no word has been heard of the vessel. The trip should take about ten days for this craft. Reports that have arrived from vessels in the locality state that they have been having severe weather along the Alaska coast several weeks.

Captain J. E. Brinker has returned home from the Atlantic Coast, where he delivered the steamer Kingfisher from this port. He will take command of the new motor schooner Barleux, which is now loading flour on Puget Sound. The Barleux has been purchased by the French government.

Reports from Valdez, Alaska, state that the barge St. David is a total loss with a cargo of 1700 tons of ore. She was on her way to Seattle, but the tug Commodore became disabled and both craft drifted for two days. They were picked up by the cannery tender Andrew Kelly and towed to Yakutat, where the tug Daniel Kern was sent to bring her home. While awaiting the tug the St. David drifted on the rocks.

DRIVER ARRESTED.

When Patrolman Edward Frohn saw John Watts, a mechanic, driving his automobile along San Pablo avenue at Sixty-second street in rather a zig-zag manner he took him into custody and charged him with driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

If you can't get all of that you should, it's all the more important that you should have the other tried-and-true remedy for a torpid liver and bowels that don't act freely and naturally.

Resolved, That this Board does hereby fix Monday, the 10th day of December, 1917, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, at the meeting room of this Board in the annex to the Hall of Records at 5th and Broadway streets, Oakland, California, as the time and place for the consummation of said sale.

On motion by Supervisor Heyer, seconded by Supervisor Mullins, the resolution was adopted by the following vote:

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Whereas, This Board on the 15th day of October, 1917, ordered the Clerk to advertise for proposals for the improvement of County Road through Castro Valley from East Fourteenth street to and including a portion of Kelley avenue in Eden Road District, Eden Township, Alameda county, California; and

Whereas, On Monday, November 5, 1917, bids were presented for said work; and

Whereas, Russell and Fernandez, bid for $82,861.50 at unit prices is the lowest and most satisfactory proposal; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the contract for the improvement of County Road through Castro Valley from East 14th street to and including a portion of Kelley avenue in Eden Road District, Eden Township, Alameda county, California, be and the same is hereby awarded to Russell and Fernandez; be it further

Resolved, That a bond in the sum of $41,500.00 be required from said Russell and Fernandez for the performance of said work, and that the District Attorney be and he is hereby directed to prepare the proper contract and that the Chairman of this Board be and he is hereby authorized to sign said contract for and in behalf of the County of Alameda upon the presentation and approval of the bond presented by said Russell and Fernandez for the performance of said contract, said work to be completed within one hundred and eighty days from date of approval of bond; and,

Whereas, The Board now finds and determines that the public convenience and necessity demand the macadamizing of the above road and that the same is in excess of three miles in length and will cost, when completed, in excess of three thousand dollars, and the cost will be too great to be paid out of the road fund of Eden Road District;

Now, therefore, it is hereby ordered that the cost of the contract be paid out of the good roads fund and the county general fund as follows:

Fifty thousand dollars thereof out of the good roads fund;

Balance thereof out of the general fund.

On motion by Supervisor Heyer, seconded by Supervisor Mullins, the resolution was adopted by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Foss, Heyer, Mullins and Chairman Murphy—4.

Absent—Supervisor Kelley—1.

PRICES HIGHER ON WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Higher quotations accompanied a covering movement in the stock exchange today. The following was the course of trading at different periods during the day:

OPENING—The more favorable Russian news was reflected in a show of strength at the opening, advances during the initial trading ranging from one to over two points. Steel common advanced 1⅜ to 94⅛ and Bethlehem Steel "B" gained over two points to 79¾c. Crucible advanced 2½ to 56½ and Baldwin Locomotive sold up to 55¼, an upturn of over 1⅜.

Marine preferred was 2⅜ higher at 98⅛, while the common gained ⅜ to 26¾. The copper stocks showed improvement and railroad stocks were strong.

FORENOON—The covering movement continued during the first hour, accompanied by higher quotations, after which trading diminished visibly, interest centering around the President's Buffalo address. Profit taking had its effect in several quarters, Studebaker reacting three points, but elsewhere reversals averaged less than a point. Rails and shippings manifested more firmness than steels and coppers and a few high grade specialties advanced two to three points. Liberty 4s sold at 99.98 to the new low of 99.96 and the 3½s ranged between 99.34 to 99.30.

Marie preferred moved up 3¼ to 98¾, followed by a reaction to 97¾. Steel common made a gain of two points to 94⅝ and Bethlehem Steel "B" moved up 2⅜ to 80.

Money loaning at 4 per cent.

AFTERNOON—A general selling movement carried prices down from fractions to over one point in the late dealings. United States Steel common dropped to 92¾, a decline of two points from the high of the day. Marine preferred fell to 96¾ and St. Paul to 37¾.

CLOSING—The market closed heavy; government bonds unchanged; railroad and other bonds steady.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The trough-shaped depression extends from Arizona north to British Columbia and thence northwestward to Southern Alaska. It has caused good rain in California as far south as Merced and San Jose, and generally throughout Oregon, Washington and Northern Idaho. A large high pressure area is central over Minnesota and the barometer is relatively low over New England. Light rain has fallen in Tennessee and in portions of the adjoining states. It is much warmer in Northwestern Nevada and in Southern and Eastern Oregon.

Conditions are favorable for fair and colder weather in this district tonight and Tuesday, except in Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington, Idaho and Northern Nevada, where it will continue unsettled with rain or snow from 12 to 24 hours longer.

E. A. BEALS, Forecaster.

BABES' PLAINT OPENS PROBE OF CARD CLUB

Investigation of whist clubs, frequented largely by women of moderate or small means, wives of working men, where the family earnings are lost in draw poker, pluto and similar games after the whist tournaments are over, is being conducted by the police, under the special direction of Chief Henry Nedderman.

Complaints have been made by civic workers that women spend hours, night and day, at these whist clubs that they take their children to the halls and let them play and sleep on the floors, quieting them from time to time with a piece of cake or a cookie.

So far Chief Nedderman's investigation has showed that the card playing is within the law, as there is no evidence of the games being on a percentage basis. But the conditions are such that the matter of having a special ordinance framed that might cover the case is under consideration.

THREE CLUBS NAMED.

The whist clubs which are being probed are conducted at Loring hall, southeast corner of Clay and Eleventh streets, and the old California hall, 1215 Clay street. Here whist for merchandise orders ranging from $7.50 to $15, and for turkeys, is played Monday and Tuesday afternoons and Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons and evenings.

The patrons of the two places are largely women, according to the police and to special investigators. The same women are said to come afternoon after afternoon and night after night.

The sessions start with whist playing, but after the whist playing for merchandise orders is over the patrons are allowed to play any games they please, 25 cents being charged for the use of the decks of cards and 10 cents for a seat at the table. Decks of cards are frequently changed, necessitating an extra charge of 25 cents each time, it is alleged.

Then begins the gaming at draw poker, pluto and other games not specifically banned by the law. The women play for money, and as much as $300 to $500 has been seen on the tables at one time.

SLEEP ON FLOOR.

In the afternoon sessions the little children that cannot be left alone are brought by several of the women and allowed to play about the floors, where they go to sleep from weariness toward 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Sometimes the women rush home about 6 to get the family dinner, but in many cases the card playing will continue from 1 o'clock in the afternoon on into the night, and the tired and wide-eyed youngsters will remain in the hall, sleeping on chairs and on the floor from time to time, and then asking to be taken home.

Children are also brought to the night sessions and sometimes kept up till 11 and 12 o'clock at night, the police investigation found. Youngsters from 3 to 5 years of age have been seen night after night at the place, and civic workers have considered taking the matter up with the probation officer, to see whether something cannot be done in behalf of the children at least.

Loring hall, according to the police report, is conducted by Mrs. D. Davis, while the games at California hall are under the charge of Mrs. H. Hirsch. There is also a whist club at Odd Fellows' hall, but it is declared that this is conducted on a somewhat stricter basis.

"There is no doubt that a bad condition exists at these places," said Chief Nedderman. "I have them under investigation. It is difficult to deal with the situation, as the games are actually within the law. An ordinance giving the council, on the recommendation of the chief of police, the right to regulate and license such clubs might give us sufficient control to correct conditions, at least in part.

"The custom of taking children there is indeed a bad one, and this should be stopped if there is any way to do it."

Berkeley Garbage Cans Reveal Big Waste in Foods

Is a garbage can personal property or a national problem?

Waking up some dark night to find a prowler carefully extracting the contents of the back yard receptacle, would one be justified in calling the police? Berkeley need not answer. Berkeley was ignorant of the raid. The prowlers being caught might have entered a plea of "war experiment."

However, the secret of the garbage can is out. While the city slept, university experts visited the galvanized tin in various neighborhoods, inspected and classified the refuse which came from table and larder, and made way with part of it. Carefully preserved, it is the basis for one of the newest garbage exhibits which is being shown by the food conservationists. Half hams, pints of sour milk, bread, butter fats—all the necessities in tremendous quantities which Herbert Hoover is insisting upon in his defense plans—were gathered in to prove how wasteful is even this banner city of California in conservation work. For the thing which was wasted, an equivalent is offered to show how it might have been saved.

The exhibit is all ready. It justifies the prowlers in their war experiment. They have made it a national problem by forever silencing the personal property owners.

The university experts will offer the collection this week in the college town.

PREPARE FOR NEW I. W. W. TROUBLE

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 12.—Sixteen of the seventeen members of the I. W. W. flogged, tarred and feathered and driven from the city Friday night are believed to have determined upon the Drumright oil field as a rendezvous toward which they are now making their way. The seventeenth, L. M. Mitchell, a painter and paperhanger of this place, and a grandfather, telephoned the local sheriff this morning asking permission to return to the city, promising the sheriff he had wholly reformed and renounced the unpatriotic stand of the I. W. Ws. His plea was granted.

U. S. STARTS PROBE OF MOONEY CASE

The government's official investigation of the Mooney bomb cases, ordered by President Wilson when the case assumed international significance following the Petrograd riots, was started today by the federal industrial commission which President Wilson has sent west with Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson at its head, and Felix Frankfurter, its secretary, actually directing the probe. When the commission launched itself upon its task today the second step in the President's mediation in the bomb cases began to register action. The first step was that of which The TRIBUNE gave the first account to the public—President Wilson's demand on Governor Stephens for a stay of execution of the death sentence against Thomas J. Mooney, second to be convicted of the bomb defendants.

The investigation comes too late to save another of the defendants, Warren K. Billings, from at least beginning to serve his life sentence at Folsom prison. He was taken there Saturday loudly protesting that he was being hurried away because of the approach of the federal investigation.

HEARS FICKERT.

Beginning the commission's probe, Secretary Frankfurter heard District Attorney Charles M. Fickert, who had charge of the prosecution, and Attorney Maxwell McNutt, chief counsel for the defense, today. Tomorrow Attorney General U. S. Webb, who intervened with the State Supreme Court in behalf of Mooney, and United States Attorney John W. Preston, who made a preliminary inquiry for President Wilson, will tell what they know of the case.

It is not expected this much questioning will exhaust the resources of the federal investigators, but will rather pave the way for continued inquiry which they may make. It is understood here that they are without definite data regarding the conduct of the bomb defendants' prosecution and have gone to those chiefly concerned with it to learn where their future questioning must lie. Both sides of the case have desired from the federal investigators an exhaustive investigation of the situation.

MAY BE MAILED.

The recommendations which the commission may make at the conclusion of its hearing may go forward to the President by mail, as today were mailed those of the commission's investigation at Bisbee, Ariz., of the I. W. W. deportations. The Bisbee report will be kept secret, members of the commission stated today, until opened by the President at Washington and published by him. Whether the Mooney cases recommendations are similarly mailed or carried east by the commission Washington will first tell what they include.

Several alternatives are presented to the commission. It may find that the cases have been honorably conducted, the verdicts reached by normal process of law, and hence not justifying presidential interference; they may find that the prisoners are being made martyrs and that action by President Wilson is emphatically needed. What the latter recommendation may lead to, if accepted by the President, seems to be as follows:

Bringing back of Billings from Folsom prison and submitting him to trial anew on other parade death indictments; remanding of Mooney to trial and removal of the death penalty pronounced against him; probable release of Mrs. Rena Mooney from the other indictments pending against her, she having been acquitted on the first on which she was tried; continuance of the trial of Israel Weinberg, if it is not already completed.

MALLEABLE IRON PLANT ASSURED

Plans are practically complete for the establishment in Oakland of one of the largest malleable iron foundries in the country, and the only one on the coast, according to several Oakland capitalists interested in the new venture. The new plant will be situated on the western waterfront, and it is understood that the site has already been secured through a lense. A census of buyers of malleable iron materials is now being taken in order that those interested in the new venture may have some idea of the amount of business to expect at the start. The original capacity of the plant will probably depend to a degree on this census.

Manufacturers have maintained for years that a malleable iron foundry is a necessity on the coast. Cast iron, which cannot be forged and cannot always be used as a substitute for malleable iron, is now cast in the East and shipped here, and a plant here should pay, say users of iron.

Oakland and San rFancisco capital is behind the new venture, and the census of firms using the material is being taken through the Daily Construction News, a San Francisco engineers' publication, and Fred LeBallister, factory expert of Oakland. The names of the organizers are being withheld for the present, declares Le Ballister, and will not be announced until the plans of the new firm have been completed.

TO FOUND HOME

Representatives of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. M. C. L. have agreed on the founding of a colored branch of Y. M. C. A. Heretofore the matter of location had held the work of organization somewhat at bay, but now that this has been agreed upon, the Ministerial Alliance, as representative of the league, in an official meeting at the Zion church, called for a meeting of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. L. to be held at the Beth Eden Baptist church, Tuesday night, November 13, at 8 o'clock, at which time all necessary arrangements will be made for launching a campaign for the raising of the first $500 for the work.

PROWLER SILENT

William H. Penny of 5567 Dover street, who was mistaken for a burglar while prowling about in the basement of his own home last night with a flashlight, and who battled with Lieutenant W. F. Wood and Patrolman W. J. Davis when they went to arrest him, appeared before Police Judge Smith on a charge of battery this morning. The case was continued until Wednesday for pleading. According to the police Penny was under the influence of liquor and refused to explain to them why he was in the basement. Neighbors who saw the light telephoned to the police that a burglar was in the house.

Condemned Mother May Be Saved; Girl Actress Refuted by Living Babe

By JESS DORMAN

Is Mrs. Helen Gleason guilty of the "murder" of her three-weeks-old baby boy by smothering it in a dresser drawer in the house on Fifth street on the afternoon that she brought it back from the Hobart-street home, as told in the remarkable testimony of Miriam, her 14-year-old daughter on the witness stand last week, or does the baby, now a four-year-old youngster, romp and play and chatter in the home of his foster-parents "somewhere out in the country"?

The question was raised today when The TRIBUNE found Miriam's father.

"I don't believe her mother did it," he said. "I overheard her tell a woman some two months after the baby disappeared that she had sent it into the country. I think she wanted to make us think the baby died."

The jury found the mother guilty on the strength of Miriam's testimony, the most remarkable story in the Western annals of criminal trials. Her story was uncorroborated. It was told in tearful sincerity, a vivid recital of a grim tragedy. It was as if every incident of that tragedy had burned itself into her memory with a flaming point, and all the adroitness of the defendant's counsel could not disturb the fatal continuity of the narrative.

But it develops that Miriam is an actress, by inclination and experience. "A natural born actress," declares her father, who did not appear to testify at the trial of his wife.

PARTS SHE HAS PLAYED.

For two weeks she played the part of little Hal, the half-breed boy in "The Squaw Man" at the San Francisco Alcazar, with Sidney Ayers and Madeline Lewis. She played the part again at Ye Liberty in Oakland. She was a baby in "Shore Acres" at Ye Liberty, with Henry Shumer. She was Peas Blossom in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at Ye Liberty, and she appeared in song and fancy dance at the Kermess at the Key Route Inn.

"Since she was four years old she has been studying and acting," says her father. She always organizes her friends into stock companies and puts on plays on any old kind of a stage. She is a natural born little actress."

There is no suggestion that Miriam deliberately fabricated the fatal portion of her testimony, but her genius is creative. She is an omnivorous reader, delighting in weird fiction.

When she was but a four-year-old girl she wanted to lie awake and read. Her mother said she had a penchant for fabricating tales. Her father remembers it. Miriam herself says that Dr. C. W. Lineker, 3235 Telegraph avenue, where she lived when she remembered the tragedy after four years, was "always saying to me to tell the truth." It was a book on truth telling, she said, from the doctor's library that confirmed her in her resolve to tell.

TEARS READY AT THE EYES.

"I didn't mean to tell," she cried yesterday. "I didn't think the authorities would hear it when I told Mrs. Lineker. I wouldn't do a thing to harm my mother."

"Do you realize, Miriam, that your revelation will send your mother to prison, perhaps to the gallows?" was asked her.

"I didn't realize it at the time," she sobbed.

"Well, Miriam, is the story true?"

"It is true as I remember it; but I may remember it wrong," and the ready tears flooded her sad eyes.

"I think she remembered it wrong," declares her father; "I don't believe her mother did it. I overheard her mother tell a woman some two months after the baby disappeared that she had sent it to the country. I think she wanted to make us think the baby died."

The testimony is in fatal conflict, after the father is heard.

FATAL CONFLICT HERE.

"My mother took the baby from the dresser drawer where she put it when Mrs. Ball came to the door a few minutes after we got back from the Hobart-street maternity home and placed it in the suitcase. I helped her put it outside the window and she buried it in the backyard," said Miriam.

"What time was it?" was asked.

"It was late in the afternoon."

"Was it after dark?"

"It was still light."

"When I came home there was a bundle on the bed; my wife said it was the baby, and that it had died," the father says.

"What time was it?"

"Oh, it was late; I should say 9 o'clock or later," he replied.

"Was it after dark?"

"Yes, it was dark."

"The baby died in convulsions at 9 o'clock," the mother said. "Mrs. Ball sat on the bed beside it. My husband came home a little later."

"I suggested that we should call in a doctor to see what to do," the husband said, according to his version of that night. "My wife said it was no use. Early in the morning I went out and when I returned the bundle was gone. I asked no questions. I was out of work; everything was wrong."

HE PLAYED NO PART.

"But you are supposed to have taken the body away and disposed of it," was said to him.

"I did nothing of the kind," he denied. "I never touched it or looked at it. I didn't want to see it. It may not have been the baby in the bundle. A month or two later I overheard my wife telling a lady that the baby was up in the country."

"It isn't true. It isn't true," cries the condemned woman, weeping bitterly now, broken in the mill of fate, although throughout the trial she sat apparently unmoved, sullen it seemed, as if it were vain to protest. In her testimony she told no connected narrative; only answering briefly the questions asked her. After the verdict she was the woman again, and tears came to her relief. But her answers were still brief. There was a vague remoteness in her manner as if her thoughts were away.

Where is the baby, the unconscious subject of the tragedy?

Yesterday I found Miriam perched on the top seat of the grandstand at the High street playgrounds, Alameda, abstractedly watching the ball game, sitting apart, alone.

The night before I had found the father, silent in a game of cards, thoughtful, but apparently not of the game.

The morning before that I had found the mother at the county jail, weeping her protest.

BABY TO BE FOUND.

But where is the baby?

The girl knew little of her father.

"Where does he work?" she asked.

The father knew little of the daughter.

The mother knew little of either.

"I can't sleep at night. I have no home," the father complained.

"I wouldn't do a thing to hurt my mother," the girl sobbed.

"I don't know why they deserted me and turned against me," the mother wailed.

But the father knew. And Mrs. Gleason knew. Under a cloak of denial she sought to hide her identity when the authorities questioned her. It was not a lack of mother instinct that made her deny her name and her children—it was the horror of the monster, the hideous thing that in her heart she hates. Their home is wrecked and they are scattered; the wife condemned. But pride is left. The hot flush came to her face when the social monster stalked into the courtroom and her answers were low.

The husband and father shrunk from it.

"If you write about this in the paper we will meet again," he warned.

PRIDE BEHIND SECRECY.

Can it be that the mother's stubborn pride locks the secret in her heart and keeps it there in spite of yawning prison gates? She knew the baby was not wanted. She knew why her husband would not look at it. She well knew that he would not touch the bundle lying on the bed that night.

Maybe that was only Miriam's doll. Miriam said her mother begged at two foundling homes to have it taken in. Maybe she knows now at whose door she laid it, where its call found answer and won for it a home. Who else knows?

FURTHER PROBE LIQUOR SALES

As the result of the federal raids on local rooming houses last Friday night when twelve persons were arrested for alleged illicit traffic in liquor with soldiers and sailors, an inquiry will be made into the proposition of whether or not the owners of the property were cognizant that their premises were used for immoral purposes. Commissioner Krull, following the hearing in San Francisco Saturday morning, ordered further investigation.

Mrs. Anna Spaniol, housekeeper at the St. John's house, 415 Twelfth street, stated in court that the Charles Jurgens Estate Company owned the property and that she merely acted as agent for the corporation. The court ordered that William C. Jurgens, secretary, be subpoenaed to inform the court in the matter. The estate has been operating the house for about eighteen months since the estate was incorporated.

Mrs. Spaniol stated that she knew of no violations and said that she had strict instruction not to tolerate any wrongdoing on the premises.

Secretary Jurgens said today:

"I know nothing about this liquor business. "The woman who keeps the house had explicit instructions not to furnish anything to soldiers. I do not believe she did any such thing. She has been there two years and is reliable. If soldiers buy liquor and take it there with them, we can't help that, for we can't search them. I go there nearly every day myself and I have seen no evidence of any wrongdoing.'

ADMITS GUILT

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—Charged with the illicit traffic of selling liquor to soldiers in uniform, Lucile Dahlia entered a plea of guilty before District Judge William C. Van Fleet and was given three months in the county jail and a $250 fine.

William D. Myers, a clerk in the Essex Hotel, was given six months and a $200 fine. He was released on bonds of $2000, pending hearing on a writ of error which was filed by his counsel.

Joseph Cereghino, prominent Olympic Club member and handball champion, who was indicted on the charge of theft and misuse of postal money orders, said to have been obtained from a sub-postal station in his store at 2472 San Bruno avenue, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

ELLIOTT TO DEFEND USE OF RECALL

The largest meeting of the week planned in the recall campaign is that to be held Thursday night at the Municipal Auditorium, when Albert H. Elliott, former city councilman and one of the framers of the Oakland city charter, will defend the use of the recall in the present campaign against Mayor John L. Davie. David C. Dutton, candidate against Mayor Davie, will also speak.

Mayor Davie will speak Wednesday night at the Aloha Theater, Seventeenth and Peralta streets, on the issues involved in the recall campaign. The meeting will be under the auspices of the West Oakland Harbor League.

Anson B. Weeks will commence a series of neighborhood and precinct meetings tomorrow. He plans to make several talks a day from now until the election, December 4.

DUTTON TO SPEAK.

Dutton will speak at a meeting at Junction Hall, Seventeenth and Peralta streets, tonight and tomorrow at Fairlawn Hotel, Fruitvale avenue and Galindo street.

Dutton already has twenty-five meetings scheduled. He plans to discuss every phase of the recall situation, from the principle of the recall itself to the city budget and the personality and fitness of Davie to be mayor of Oakland.

"There can be no misunderstanding about the issue before the people," said Manager A. G. Myran this morning. "Friends of Mayor Davie and the mayor himself are working hard to discredit the principle of the use of the recall just as much as they are attempting to throw discredit on the candidates opposing the mayor.

BECOMING POPULAR.

"The candidacy of Dutton is fast growing in popularity. Reports from all over the city show that his strength is growing daily, the more the people learn about him and his principles. In a recent open letter Mayor Davie has invited Dutton to make a clear statement of his position before the public and Dutton will reply fearlessly and openly at the Auditorium Thursday night."

Editor Hudson Observer:
Dear Sir—About six years ago I was in the U. S. Navy, aboard the Montana which was detailed to Turkish waters. We expected our stay to be about a month or two. At the end of three months our canteen stores began to run low and at the end of four months we were buying Bull Durham at 25 cents a sack from some of the boys who had taken a good supply in time. It was not long before we could not buy Bull Durham at any price. Although we could have the real Turkish cigarettes at 20 for 10 cents, we would rather give 50 cents for a real Bull Durham smoke. I know from experience that the tobacco you send to Europe will be welcomed by every American man. So I am sending $1.00 to you so that the soldiers and sailors will not worry for the want of the "makin's."
